TURKEY AWAITS NAZIS, DIPLOMATIC MOVES CALMLY & UNAFRAID

ANKARA, NOV. 24 (REUTER).—TURKEY REMAINS UNIMPRESSED BY HITLER'S LATEST DIPLOMATIC MOVES WHICH HAVE SECURED THE RECOGNITION OF GERMAN AND ITALIAN OVERLORDSHIP OF EUROPE BY COUNTRIES WHICH HAVE NOT BEEN ABLE TO MAKE THEIR OWN DECISION.

CHURCHES AND SHOPS HIT

Heavy Raid On Coast Town

FROM A SOUTH COAST TOWN, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Waves of German bombers swooping in from the sea and dropping fire-bombs, subjected this town to its heaviest attack of the war last night.

As they wheeled back for their bases, high explosive bombs crashed down on churches, cinemas, clinics, banks, public buildings, hotels and shops were damaged.

Several fires were caused and the planes tried to concentrate on these, but accurate anti-aircraft fire drove many back.

Southampton Target

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—The German radio claimed that 250 planes heavily attacked the harbour, docks and "warehouses" in Southampton with high explosive bombs and thousands of incendiaries.

Downdown Over Channel

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—An enemy bomber was shot down over the channel to-day.

It was one of several formations which tried to attack London but were dispersed by defending fighters.

The Air Ministry states that a few bombs were dropped at several points in Kent but casualties and damage were small.

North Sea Chase

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—On the way to Germany, an R.A.F. bomber was attacked over the North Sea by three Junkers, but it kept up a running fight for 20 minutes, by which time the bomber had been forced down from 7,000 to 2,000 feet.

"Just when things were looking bad," said the pilot, "we saw one enemy plane falling in headlong dive towards the sea with its cockpit ablaze. This was enough for the other two who sheered off."

German fighters were also active during the raid on Berlin when two Messerschmitts attacked an R.A.F. bomber but they broke off the fight after a brief encounter.

Italian Raiders Dispersed

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Low-flying Italian bombers raided Alexandria in the early hours to-day and were dispersed by a withering anti-aircraft fire.

Damage was done to house property and there were several casualties.

Admiral Forbes

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Admiral Sir Charles Forbes, former Commander-in-Chief of the Home Fleet, has been appointed Commander-in-Chief, Plymouth, in succession to Admiral Sir Martin Dunbar-Nasmith as from May 1 next.

Slovakia and The Axis

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (UP).—"For us Slovaks this is an act of great political importance," declared the Slovak Premier, Bela Tuka, following the signing of Slovakia's adherence to the Axis.

"We have been formally admitted into the circle of those great nations united under the three-power pact. The aim of these great Powers is a new and better order to prevent the extension of war, and to establish a just and, therefore, lasting peace which will secure for all nations these rights in their own sphere of life," the Premier said.

Nazi Girls Plumb New Depths Of Blasphemy

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—"Hitler is no accident. He is a natural continuous product of a breed, which from the dawn of history, has been predatory and bellicose."

So declared Sir Robert Vansittart, Chief Diplomatic Adviser to the Government, broadcasting to-day.

He continued: "We must drop the habit of making allowances for the Germans. It is not fair to ourselves."

Sir Robert likened Germany to a butcher bird, which looks harmless enough but springs on neighbours when they least expect it."

"It is a hallucination to believe that there is in Germany an effective element of kindly learned old gentlemen and sweet pig-tailed maidens. You will find in the Polish 'Black Book' German girls floating over the summits of their victims. That is less surprising when one remembers that in forty times German women

Bulgaria's attitude is not yet clear, but reports reaching Ankara suggest that King Boris did not commit himself at last week-end's conversation with Hitler at Berchtesgaden.

It is said that Hitler pointed out the value of an alliance with Germany in the present situation which gave Bulgaria an opportunity of realising her territorial claims on Greece.

King Boris is understood to have replied that a country as small as Bulgaria could not afford to take part in struggles between great Powers.

The best opinion in Ankara is that Yugo-Slavia will hold out against Axis pressure. But as it is difficult to foresee probable developments in the international situation, Turkey is taking no risks. Apart from martial law in the Straits zone, other military measures are in prospect with the object of further increasing the preparedness.

Soldiers Called Up

A large army has been mobilised and its numbers are steadily increasing.

The hope is expressed here that these precautions will discourage the Axis Powers from presenting Turkey with a short-term ultimatum and, particularly if it is hoped they will have a sobering effect on Bulgaria.

Whether or not the hope is realised, these countries cannot have any doubts as to Turkey's determination to be ready for all eventualities.

Italy's Vicupoint

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Whilst the Bulgarian Prime Minister, M. Filoff, and the Foreign Minister, M. Popoff, are reported to be speeding on their way to Berlin, Axis-inspired rumours suggest that Bulgaria will be the next country to sign the tripartite pact, says "Reuter's" Diplomatic Correspondent.

Already, he adds, the "Voce d'Italia" has declared that Bulgaria has ranged herself on the side of the Axis-Powers—not as a neutral but as a belligerent."

No Passage For Troops

This may be premature, for even though Bulgaria, through threats or bludgeonings, feels herself impelled to join the "New Order," it does not mean that the country will at once be used as a corridor for German troops aiding Italy.

The Turkish attitude regarding the passage of troops through Bulgaria has been made perfectly clear, and the recent security measures taken in that country shows that she is fully prepared to defend her vital interests.

The signing of the tripartite pact has made no appreciable change in the situation.

The only three countries which have signed with the Axis are those which were already dominated by Nazi influence or Nazi arms.

Yugo-Slav Resistance

In the meantime Yugo-Slav resistance to the Axis is stiffening as the result of the Italian defeat in Greece and it seems certain that

BRITISH SHIP SHELLED S.O.S. Picked Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—An S.O.S. from the British steamer Port Hobart, saying that she was being shelled by a raider off the West Indies was picked up by the Mackay Radio this afternoon.

Twenty-five minutes earlier the Port Hobart had flashed a warning that she had "sighted a suspicious vessel" and her position was given as about 500 miles north-east of Porto Rico.

Port Hobart is a vessel of 7,448 tons, owned by the Port Lines Limited.

A distress signal from the British steamer Taranto of 4,871 tons stating that she had sighted a "suspect vessel" about 800 miles west of Ireland was also picked up by the Mackay Radio.

The British steamer Taranto is

BRITISH NAVY BOMBARDS CHERBOURG

During last month light and heavy forces of the Royal Navy carried out a bombardment of the Nazi-occupied port of Cherbourg, where a concentration of enemy shipping had been detected. The outcome was the total destruction of the major part of the Nazi concentration. In these two pictures we see some of the ships taking part in the bombardment. The photographs were taken at the height of the attack.

British Troops In Greece

First Contingent

(FROM "REUTER'S"
CORRESPONDENT IN GREECE)

ATHENS, Nov. 24.—A number of famous British warships in brilliant sunshine slipped quietly into a Greek harbour a few days ago, their decks packed with British and New Zealand land troops and airmen waving back to the frenzied thousands of Greeks whose clapping and cheering echoed from hill to hill.

The first warship to berth showed signs of a famous engagement. Within two minutes of the hawsers being flung to the dockside the first British army lorry was landed gracefully from this warship.

Meanwhile British and New Zealand troops competed to be the first to set foot on Greek soil. A typical Cockney won the contest by a narrow margin.

Greeks Continue Advance On Entire Front Into Albania

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—The advance of the Greek troops along the whole front has now carried their left wing over the border into Albania.

Reports reaching London this evening said that the Greeks had taken the small town of Konispolis. This town is near the coast opposite Corfu and is one of the roads leading to Argyrokastro.

In the centre the Italians are reported to be trying to reform their line of battle some distance within Albania while their rear-guards make a stand in some of the valleys.

The right Greek wing is still advancing. The Italians are being pushed back from Koritzia to Pogradec on the Yugo-Slav border.

There is no news as to exactly how far back the Italians have been pushed but it is thought too much to expect the capture of Pogradec yet because between this town and Koritzia is 25 miles of difficult country.

The Greeks are advancing warily and are not stopping to collect the booty. The Italians are leaving behind.

This push is being helped by British bombers, which are harassing the retreating Fascists and disrupting communications. The Greek advance goes the more difficult because the three Italian air force, for the three Italian aerodromes at Koritzia are in Greek hands while the airfield at Argyrokastro is threatened.

Premier Of N. Ireland Dies Working To Last

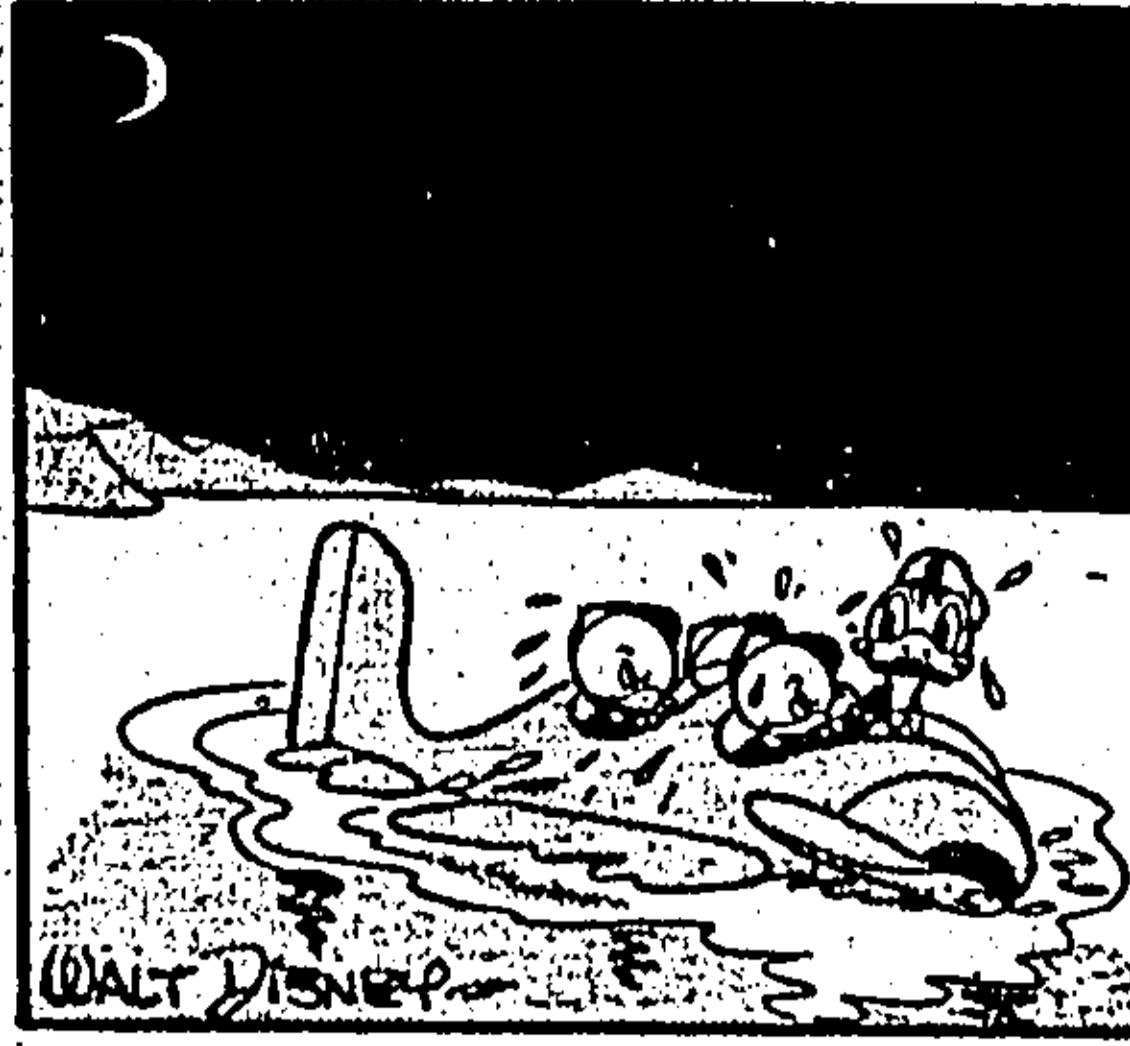

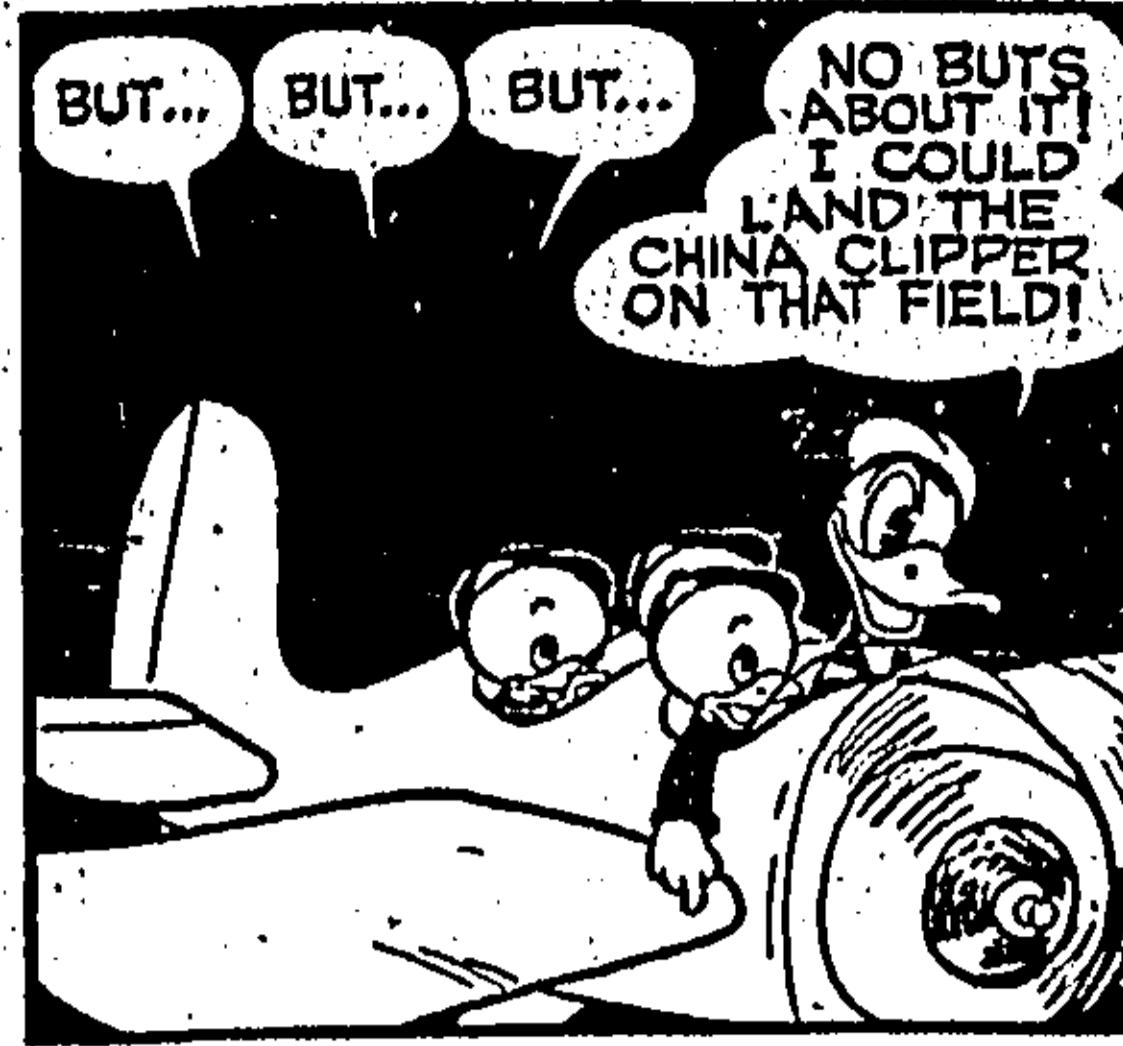

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, is dead.

He was 69 years of age and held a record for tenure of office among modern statesmen. He had been leader of the Northern Ireland Government for over 18 years, being first appointed in June, 1921.

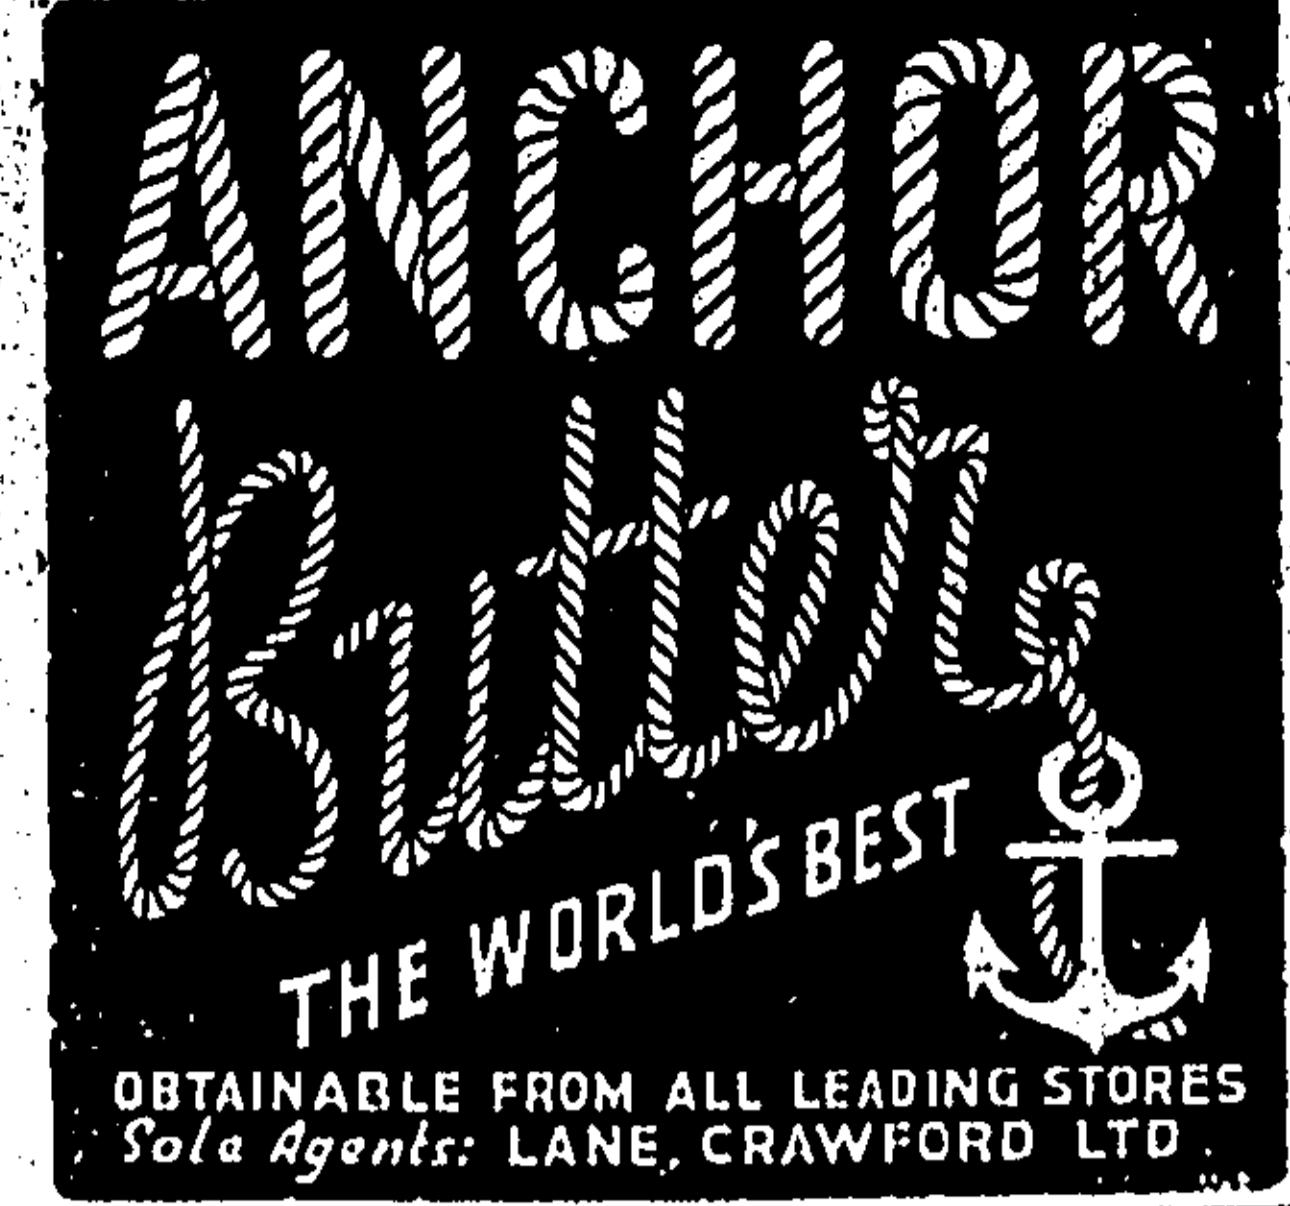

He had been working right up to the end and had addressed a sitting of the Northern Ireland Parliament last Tuesday. He had been working under a severe strain and his health had considerably suffered from his long illness. He died suddenly on Saturday morning.

During his long political career, he was a stern opponent of Home Rule and any idea of United Ireland. Lord Craigavon collapsed to-night at his home at Glenravel, near Belfast, and died soon afterwards.

Late Mr. James Cox

The following appeared in The Times recently:

With reference to the article entitled "British Citizens in Japan" in The Times of September 13, we are asked to make it clear that there is no proof whatever that Mr. James Cox, the correspondent of Reuter's Agency in Tokyo, committed suicide while under detention, and that various theories to the contrary have been advanced by those familiar with Japanese Police methods.

STAGGERING SEVEN-YEAR COST

75 BILLION DOLLARS FOR U.S. DEFENCE

NEW YORK, NOV. 14 (UP).—THE CONTEMPLATED DEFENCE PROGRAMME OF THE UNITED STATES MAY INVOLVE THE EXPENDITURE OF AS MUCH AS 50 TO 75 BILLION DOLLARS WITHIN THE NEXT SEVEN YEARS, ACCORDING TO ESTIMATES MADE BY FINANCIAL EXPERTS HERE.

Congress has already appropriated more than $15,000,000,000 to modernise and enlarge the Army and Navy. Yet this sum is, comparatively, a mere trifle as compared with the amounts that will be needed if the United States is to bring its military machine to the same level as that of the totalitarian states.

General George Marshall, Army Chief of Staff, recently told the Senate Appropriations Committee that it would cost the United States $100,000,000,000 to duplicate the German army and its equipment.

In addition to the $15,000,000,000 already allocated for defence purposes, it is estimated that at least ten billions will probably be required to equip adequately an army of 2,000,000 men.

Reply To Sydney Petition. It has been officially indicated that there is little likelihood of it being possible to allow the return of the Hongkong evacuees in the near future.

This is revealed in a letter from the Colonial Secretariat acknowledging the petition of the 147 women in Sydney to be permitted to return to Hongkong. The petition was received by the "Hongkong Telegraph," and forwarded at the request of the petitioners to the Government.

Acknowledging receipt of the petition, Mr. C. Bramall Burgess, on behalf of the Colony Secretary writes:

Sir.—With reference to your letter of the 2nd November with which you forwarded a petition from certain ladies who were evacuated from this Colony and are at present in Australia, I am directed by His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government to inform you that the matters dealt with in this petition are at present under consideration and that, while there is little likelihood of it being possible to allow the return of evacuees in the near future, a further reply will be sent as soon as possible after the matter has been fully examined.

C. Bramall Burgess.

Estonia Evacuees Here. One hundred and sixty six British men, women and children, evacuees from Estonia, arrived in Hongkong to-day en route to Australia. They have been travelling since October 20, going overland via Siberia to Vladivostok, where they made a steamer ship for Hongkong. This has been their final port of call since leaving Vladivostok and they are expected to continue their journey south to-day by the same ship.

Included among the evacuees in Mrs. L. Russell-Green, for several years Estonia correspondent of the "Sunday Observer." With her is her young son.

The appeal broadcast on Sunday over ZBW for clothing and other warlike apparel for the Estonian refugees passing through the Colony received a ready response, according to reports received from the collector-general of John's and St. Andrews Halls—yesterday. The clothing was given to the refugees before they

By the kindness of the management of the King's Theatre and of Warner Bros., the large party of the evacuees in Estonia were entertained to a cinema performance at the Theatre to-day.

Leave for America. Mrs. W. E. Denison, wife of Mr. W. E. Denison, of the China Bank, and her two sons, who were among the passengers who left Hongkong for San Francisco by the City of Norfolk. Other passengers were Lt. A. P. Kohlman and his wife and daughter.

Link with Hongkong. An interesting link exists between President Roosevelt, who has been re-elected for a third term, and the United States, and the British Colony of Hongkong, of which few people are aware. President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's maternal grandfather was Warren Delano, partner in one of the leading mercantile houses of British occupation, and his mother, the former Sully, was a widow when a young girl. Mrs. Sully Roosevelt is now 83 years of age, and was the second wife of the President's father.

A recent issue of the well-known American magazine "Life" had an illustrated article on the Roosevelt family in the course of which the following reference to the President's mother appears: "Her father, Warren Delano, lost his China-trade fortune in the panic of 1857, and when he returned to Hongkong to make another, little Sally, her mother and seven sisters and brothers followed him, making a 12,000-mile voyage round the Cape of Good Hope on the celebrated clipper surprise."

There is no mention of how long Mrs. Sully (Sally) Delano resided here, but her father was in Hongkong for some years. He was a partner in Russell and Company, the American predecessors to Shewan, Tomes and Company. Russell and Company became successful business in Canton and far back as 1818, and among the early partners was Edward Delano, of Fairhaven.

The family's connection with the firm continued until some years after it had opened a branch in Hongkong in the Fifties. In an old directory of the Colony, dated 1860, the name of Warren Delano, partner in the firm, is listed. The firm appears to have been the joint concern of Russell and Company in Hongkong, but otherwise there is not much known of his period of activity here.

Russell and Company was re-organized in 1891 and became Shewan and Company under the late Mr. John T. Shewan, the name being changed to Shewan, Tomes and Company in 1895 when the late Mr. C. A. Tomes became a partner.

In terms of local currency the total visible trade of the Colony increased by 13.3 per cent. in October, 1940, as compared with October, 1939; and by 14.3 per cent. in terms of sterling.

Obituary. The death occurred at the Queen Mary Hospital this morning of Mr. Maximiano Antonio Collaco, an old member of the Portuguese community, who had retired from active life some years ago. He was 70 years old.

Burial took place at the Roman Catholic Cemetery, Happy Valley, in the afternoon, the Rev. Fr. G. M. Spada officiating. Chief mourners were his four daughters, Mrs. G. Brown, Mrs. C. Matto, Mrs. I. Brown and Miss Thomas Collaco, Mrs. H. Brown and Mr. A. Barros, and P. Remedes.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ruth, Mrs. W. E. Hollands, Mrs. Schipper, Mrs. Bogas, Mrs. John, Mrs. A. Comand, A. C. Batelha, Dr. F. Soares, H. Figueiredo, P. Castilho, L. Silva, A. Pereira, C. G. Silva, A. Barros, and P. Remedes.

Wreaths were sent by "His loving children." Richard, Liza and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hollands, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Matto, Mrs. I. Brown and Miss Thomas Collaco, Mrs. H. Brown and Mr. A. Barros, and P. Remedes.

Under the terms of the discretion given to the Colonial Secretary regulation in question will not be applied to persons of Chinese race.

This afternoon the new Defence Regulation was published in a General Gazette Extraordinary. It states: "In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by the Emergency Powers (Colonial Defence) Order in Council, 1939, the Emergency Powers (Colonial Defence) (Amendment) Order in Council, 1940, and all other powers enabling him to do that behalf, the Executive Authority Administering the Government hereby makes the following Defence (Entry Restrictions) Regulations, 1940, in these regulations—

(a) "Competent authority" means the satisfaction of the competent authority, that such person fails to comply with any condition imposed by the authority, or has contravened the provisions of the above regulation, without prejudice to any proceedings which may be taken against him under regulation 84 of the Defence Regulations, 1940, as applied by these regulations—

(b) "Passenger" includes any person carried in a ship or aircraft other than the master, pilot and crew thereof;

(c) "Ship" has the same meaning as in the Merchant Shipping Ordinance, 1890;

(d) "Travel document" means a document establishing the nationality and identity of a person and authorizing him to travel to and enter this Colony, issued or indorsed, in the case of a British subject or citizen, by a person by a competent British Consul, or by an officer having authority to issue or indorse such documents in respect of the person in question;

Any reference in these regulations to the master of a ship or the pilot of an aircraft shall be construed as including a reference to the person for the time being in charge of the ship or aircraft, except in relation to a ship, a pilot licensed under the Pilotage Ordinance, 1930.

Entry Restrictions.

No person, whether a British subject or not, coming as a passenger by sea or air from a place outside this Colony shall disembark in this Colony unless—

(a) He is in possession of a valid passport or travel document or a certificate, permit or pass recognized by or issued under an Ordinance, or for the time being, and from time to time in force relating to immigration; and

(b) He has first obtained on such document, certificate or permit or pass the written indorsement of the competent authority permitting him to enter this Colony.

The provisions of the Defence Regulations, 1940, and all other regulations of the same force in Hongkong shall apply for the time being in force shall apply for the purpose of the enforcement of these regulations, and otherwise in respect of these regulations, as if any reference in them to the "Crown Remedies Ordinance, 1875, is substituted for the "Crown Remedies

Ordinance, 1875,

BESTIAL BRUTALITY

WAR fought under Queenbury rules is ghastly enough, but when it is governed by Totalitarian regulations as imposed by Hitler, Mussolini and their admirers, it becomes the last word in bestial brutality. Hitler, when he ordered through Goering, the machine-gunning of defenceless women and children, took away from his soldiers what little honour there was left to them. This murderous form of warfare started in France and Belgium and has been continued during air raids over England.

The world has been forced to accept air raids as a necessary feature of modern war; civilians now recognise that they have about the same sporting chance of surviving as did the men in the last war who "went over the top"; at least they have from bombs. But Hitler doesn't believe in sporting chances, and he orders his aerial assassins to dive down on peaceful, inoffensive country towns and villages to machine-gun the unsuspecting inhabitants; Bruno Mussolini and his gangsters did the same thing to the fleeing, defenceless Abyssinians and described it as "great sport". This last week a Hongkong resident learnt that his mother, sister and two-year-old niece were machine-gunned by one of Hitler's air murderers while they were out walking; a nearby railway arch saved them. The same inhuman action is being performed daily over England.

This then is what Britain and the whole Empire has to fight; men whose hands are so stained with the blood of innocents that civilisation will for ever shudder at the recollection. Knowledge of these Hun tactics cannot but brutalise our own fighters, but, thank God, they are incapable of such unspeakable actions. Britons will take vengeance for these Nazi crimes, but not by stooping to the lowest form of warfare that the wit of man has ever devised; we will destroy economic questions affecting the whole continent, these satellite States would accept the will of the Paramount Power.

Hitler must hold every one of these conquered countries by guidance, to rule themselves—a continuous effort and a constant strain.

Poles and Czechs in particu-

And the Germans are quite incapable of carrying out any legend and an inspiration. Despite all Nazi efforts the true stories get round—and become even exaggerated as they go.

Lost Chance

If in each country they invaded they had gone all out immediately the fighting was over to conciliate the people: if they had behaved as if they really had come, as they professed, to protect them against British via there have been many thousands of Germans sent away against British greed (or, in the case of the much-bombed Ruhr East, Russian violence and Russian greed), then they might perhaps have had a chance.

But they have behaved as bullies and as plunderers. They have been arrogant and overbearing.

They have pillaged industry and agriculture and brought thriving people near to starvation.

They have forced men into labour gangs and carried them off to toil as serfs in the Reich. They themselves claim to have nearly two million workers from the conquered countries labouring in Germany.

The holding of the conquests is costing Germany a big effort and will cost her a bigger one as time goes on.

That is a quite important fact: And that bit of news about the Government-General of Poland is quite significant and decidedly cheering.

In a speech delivered by the German Minister of Propaganda, Dr. Goebbels, on the occasion of the anniversary of the war, he devoted particular attention to the Nazi "achievements" in solving the Jewish problem in Germany. Unable to announce to the German people the fall of Britain, he boasted instead of the Nazi "successes" in their campaign against the Jews.

The municipalities of hundreds of towns in Germany, he declared, are now displaying side by side with the swastika flag a white flag signifying that those towns are "Judenrein" (Jewless).

He also dwelt on the Nazi success in destroying Jewish life in the invaded countries, and on the intentions of the "Fuehrer", whom he styled "the genius of Germany", to eradicate the Jews in all countries after his "victorious" conclusion of the war.

In the same speech, however, Dr. Goebbels betrayed the fact that he was not so sure of the might of Germany as he pretended to be. When he dealt with the "civil deeds" of the Jews, whom he accused of sharing with Britain the responsibility for the rejection of Hitler's peace offer, he complained bitterly about the danger of starvation that threatened the countries occupied by the Nazis and he had no explanation to offer to the people on the inability of the "mighty" Nazi forces to frustrate the British blockade.

The new Governor of Vienna, Baldur von Schirach, has also the murderers and their evil leaders. It may take time, but it will be done; and when it has been accomplished, we must see to it that never again shall such barbarity be possible.

Instead of co-operation there whole continent, these satellite States would accept the will of the Paramount Power.

Lost Chance

Do not misunderstand. I am not suggesting that there is as yet any likelihood of open revolt against the Nazis in Poland, into Bohemia and Moravia.

Besides, there is not only the evidence of report and rumour. There are visible facts. Into the R.A.F. has become a

Cheering

The latest instance to have come to my attention of the incongruity of the local censorship was a ban on the publication of the news of the appointment of Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham to direct a unified Far Eastern Command. The news, cabled from London, appeared in the English afternoon newspapers on the same day, November 14. Yet not a word was allowed to be published in the Chinese papers that day. Can this news be classed as treasonable or prejudicial to defence?

Several months ago, when Japanese bombs landed in the New Territories, the Chinese newspapers were similarly buried from mentioning the fact, while their English contemporaries carried full reports.

The Government should exercise its censorship fairly and efficiently, and it is surprising that the Chinese newspapers in Hongkong have not scrupulously pressed the matter.

On the other hand, the Government permits the publication of a weekly newspaper in English, by nationals of a country which has practically allied itself with Britain's enemies in the present war, and which has disseminated news and propaganda that is, to say the least, neither flattering to Britain nor helpful to her cause.

Charlie Chaplin's "The Great Dictator" has been completed, and Hongkong is looking forward eagerly to its showing here. The inimitable Charlie appears as Hitler, complete with the emblem of the "Double Cross", the ludicrous salute and all the other trappings of a Nazi dictator. Jack Oakie takes the part of Benito Mussolini, being a take-off of the megalomaniac of Rome.

Letters from friends abroad tell me that "The Great Dictator" is the best long film that Chaplin has done.

Perhaps no news about Chaplin pleases more than that he is going to make several short comedies. In spite of many bright moments, the full-length Charlie Chaplin pictures possessed bold, weary patches. And short films mean that there is a chance of seeing him more often on the screen—tonic in these days.

No doubt in a city as large as Hong Kong there are many ways of making a living must be many and varied. Only the other night I discovered people engaged on a rather curious job—or so it appeared to me. Whilst taking a late night stroll through the city, I saw two groups of men working along the length of the tram lines removing rubbish and other accumulations from the rails. It had never dawned on me until that time that the rubbish must be removed somehow, and of course, it is reasonable to have people doing such work. Yet to me it was a curious and interesting discovery.

Engaging the men in conversation, I found that the two groups worked as soon as the last tram has gone to bed. One group begins from the Shaukiwan terminus and another from Kennedy Town, each concentrating on the left-hand pair of lines.

The two groups encounter each other nightly somewhere near Garden Road. One group will work to-night from east to west, and make the return journey the next night. Thus they go alternately.

Speaking of queer occupations, I am told that a wealthy Hongkong resident who suffers from a digestive ailment employs a man to count the number of times he chews each mouthful of food. It is said that his doctor advised him to masticate properly, even the milk he drinks. A mouthful of milk is well masticated, I understand, in 15 chews.

The Mere Man

Chinese Press Censorship

The inconsistencies of the official censorship over Chinese newspapers and periodicals in Hongkong have been pointed out time and again in the Colony's English press; and the necessity for a thorough review has, I believe, been urged on many occasions in the Legislative Council. The position, however, remains unchanged. There seems to be little excuse why our rulers cannot spare some energy to remove the anomalies that exist.

To an ordinary man, the objects of censorship would appear to be met if treasonable or grossly calumnious articles and information prejudicial to defence is excessive. The British press throughout the world has a censorship of its own in such matters, and it seems that the Government fails to appreciate that Chinese newspapers in the Colony are also keen to uphold the best traditions of their profession. The Chinese press as a whole should not be penalised for the crimes of a few isolated offenders. It is not disputed that there are newspapers here, as anywhere in the world, which would, if allowed, publish anything and everything. These are the papers to keep a vigilant watch over, but the others, who carry on their work honourably, do not deserve to be subjected to the same treatment.

The latest instance to have come to my attention of the incongruity of the local censorship was a ban on the publication of the news of the appointment of Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham to direct a unified Far Eastern Command. Former P.M.G. Passes: Lord Tryon's Work

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Lord Tryon who, as Major Tryon, was Postmaster General for five years, died suddenly today, aged 69. He was given a peacock on retirement from office last May.

Soldier Politician

George Clement Tryon, Guards officer, was educated at Eton and Sandhurst. His father was Vice-Admiral Sir G. Tryon and his mother was a sister of the 1st Earl of Arundel.

Tryon served in the South African war in 1899-1900. Two years later he left the army and devoted much of his time to travelling and studying political and social conditions in various countries. In 1910 he was elected Conservative M.P. for Brighton. He rejoined the Grenadiers in 1914 and after active service until 1917 was appointed Commandant of the London District School of Instruction. In 1919 he became Under-Secretary for Air, but a year later was transferred to the Ministry of Pensions, where he served as Parliamentary Secretary until 1922 when he was appointed Minister and was made a member of the Privy Council. In 1935, he was appointed Postmaster-General. Tryon immediately began to consider schemes of improvement.

Mutiny Hero Helping War Effort

Last of the Lucknow survivors, 92-years-old Charles Palmer, is pepming-up the war effort in Canada by forming a group of retired officers and officials in Victoria, B.C., for that object.

As a boy of 10 Charles Palmer had been a munition carrier to the garrison besieged in Lucknow, and, with the death last year of Colonel George Christie at Farnham, he became the last remaining survivor.

Son of the late General Henry Palmer, he served in the Indian Government for 30 years after the Mutiny, and retired in 1910. Falling eye-sight has made him renounce car-driving, but that is the only evidence of his great age.

Mr. Palmer, who has seen more British victories than any other living man, says that a nation that could go through the Mutiny cannot fail to win this war.

Portias Seek New Laws Of Marriage

The American National Association of Women Lawyers, meeting in Philadelphia recently discussed methods of achieving uniformity in marriage and divorce laws but postponed action.

The women lawyers at their convention last year adopted a resolution urging Congress to pass marriage and divorce laws which would be administered by the States. A bill has been submitted to Congress and is now being considered by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Judge Anna M. Ross of New York, mindful of these developments, urged that the association bring pressure on the Senate committee for speedy action.

"There is no more important issue facing the American people to-day," she said. "It affects every individual and every child."

"It is positively ridiculous for one State, like my State of New York, to grant divorces only on the ground of moral turpitude, while Nevada in handing them out for all kinds of reasons, including mental cruelty."

MEDICAL MEETING

Dr. G. H. Thomas to Give Reminiscences

A general meeting of the Hongkong and China Branch of the British Medical Association is to be held in the Council Chamber, Post Office Building, at 9.15 p.m. on Thursday next, November 28. The speaker for the evening is Dr. G. H. Thomas, Senior Medical Superintendent, Tung Wah Hospital, who will give an address entitled "Reminiscences of the past thirty-three years as a medical student and doctor in Hongkong, with special reference to the Tung Wah Hospital."

On behalf of the Council of the Association, Dr. P. S. Selwyn-Clarke, President, wishes it to be known that all registered medical practitioners in Hongkong will be cordially welcome.

RICE BOWL HELD IN NEW YORK

Beginning of Japan's End'

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (UP).—The annual Rice Bowl dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria last night was a brilliant success. Many distinguished and socially prominent New Yorkers were among the patrons and officials attending.

The Chinese Ambassador to the United States, Dr. Hu Shih, was the principal speaker. "We are here," he said; "to commemorate the achievements of the last year."

Noting America's sympathy with China, the Ambassador said historians interpreting events in the light of economic forces alone reckoned without the element of sympathy.

"You can legislate against financial assistance, but you cannot legislate against sympathy and its manifold manifestations," he said.

"It makes a world of difference whether you are fighting with the sympathy or the condemnation of the civilized world at your back."

The Chinese, fighting their best, have "bogged down and rendered one of the most formidable aggressors incapable of effectively aiding its European partners in looting and plundering wherever they find it most practicable," Dr. Hu said. "China fights on and cannot and will not, give up."

No Peace.

Dr. Hu said any peace in the Far East to-day was impossible because it would have to be a second and a much worse, Munich.

British Mission To S. America Welcomed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Extreme gratification at the reception given the British Economic Mission by members of the Government as well as very influential private citizens were expressed by Lord Willingdon in a statement he made to "Reuter's" correspondent before the Mission left Rio de Janeiro for Santos.

"The atmosphere of complete frankness, cordiality and cooperation from all makes me feel that at least the first week of the Mission's work has not been a failure. I am most confident that great and lasting goodwill come from our interchange of conversations and information," he said.

The Brazilian press, which invariably reflects public opinion, has devoted hundreds of columns to the activities of the Mission which, all sections of opinion agree, has been successful.

They were inclined to play the low passing game, and though beaten by the Association's forwards, now and again, they were never seriously challenged, except after the change over, when they were given a very trying time for about ten minutes.

As stated, the superiority of the Chinese team was to be found in their forward line, where they worked and combined harmoniously together. They went about their work with a fixed purpose and with Lai Shui-wing supplying the brains in their schemes, it was left to Chan Tak-fai to break through with his thrustful dashing.

V. K. Hyui played a very sound game, and gave good support. Of the two wingers, it was Hau Ching-tau who caught the eye. Besides scoring the only goal of the match, he was responsible for many a dangerous situation.

Even Encounter

THE first half was played at a very fast pace, but play was mostly confined to midfield, where the defences were on top. The game was very even and both keepers if they were ever tested, were tested weakly.

Changing over with no score, the Chinese were the first to attack, and Chan Tak-fai had bad luck to see a shot striking the crossbar and rebounded into play. The ball was being constantly swerved from one end to the other. First Cheong Wing-chol was called to save from Fowler and later Robinson cleared from Lai Shui-wing.

After fifteen minutes play, Hau Ching-tau received a pass from Lai Shui-wing, and although being followed by three opponents, he swerved to send in a hard cross shot that had Robinson beaten all the way.

Encouraged greatly by this goal, the Chinese kept up a terrific pressure and had the Association's defence on tenterhooks. For a spell their raids were kept out and then it was the turn of the Association's forwards to lead the Chinese round a merry dance. First it was Coomer's shot that had Cheong Wing-chol completely beaten, but the shot struck the upright, and then Hendy repeated the same performance. It was indeed bad luck, for both the shots were splendid efforts and culminated from movements which began in midfield.

The Chinese thereafter kept up steam and bombarded the Association's goal. Robinson was called upon to save in quick succession from Lai Shui-wing and Chan Tak-fai respectively and cleared his charge well.

It was mainly due to his brilliant goal keeping at this period that the score was kept at this level.

The Association made sporadic raids, and these were repulsed. Their defences were being given a very hard time but came out on top despite the constant raids.

In one case while a Spitfire and a Messerschmitt were fighting along came another Messerschmitt, which shot down the first Messerschmitt and flew off.

The Germans have apparently decided to cease giving this assistance to the R.A.F.

Another theory put forward was that the orange-painted planes were the crack squadron of Hutch, a German ace. In the last war the German ace Baron von Richthofen had the machines of his flying circus painted red.

ERSATZ BEER JUST A FIZZLE

German chemists have found themselves baffled by an age-old problem—making a teetotal drink that tastes like real beer.

Ordered by Robert Ley, the Labour Front leader, to concoct a non-alcoholic substitute that beer-hall connoisseurs would accept, the scientists set to work with test-tubes and rotors. Now from laboratories has emerged a drink called "Fizz."

"This is their second attempt to fol-

MONDAY MORNING COMMENTARY

Chinese Federation Win First Governor's Cup Match

Association Forwards Accept Opportunities

(By "Scrambler")

THOUGH BEATEN by the only goal scored by Hau Ching-tau for the Chinese Federation in the second half in the Governor's Cup match yesterday at Caroline Hill, the Association's XI were in no way disgraced, for, had their forwards accepted the chances that were presented during the earlier phases of the game, the result would have been different.

COMBINATION CARRIES THE DAY

The brand of football served up was very entertaining, and had its share of exciting and anxious moments for both teams. It was very evenly contested, and the difference was only to be found in the forward line, where the Chinese went about their work methodically and with a purpose contrasting with the Association's forwards, where, although every man worked hard, they went about their work disjointedly.

Both defences were put through a gruelling test and came off with flying colours. That no goals were scored during the first forty-five minutes of the game speaks for itself. The Chinese from the start had very good combination in defence, and although the Association's took a little time in settling down, they had the measure of their opponents, and put up as good an exhibition, if not better, than their opponents in the first half.

Both keepers had very little to do in the first half, for play was chiefly confined to midfield. However, Robinson had more to do later in the game, for after scoring that solitary goal, the Chinese played inspired football, and kept attacking for sometime, and it was during this period that the resourcefulness of Robinson was seen at its best. He saved point blank shots from both Chan Tak-fai and Hau Ching-tau, which looked certain goals, and on the whole he had more to do than Cheung Wing-chuk and gave a very creditable display.

HARD TACKLING HALVES

THE Association's defence could not have given a better display. Every man played to a standstill. The early understanding between Roughley and Leonard was responsible for their breaking up of many a threatening movement, and their

Jardines Defeat The Bank In Inter-Hong Match

DESPITE 6 for 56 by J. L. A. Fielden and then 48 runs from C. D. N. Walker, the Hongkong Bank were beaten by 37 runs by Jardines when these two firms met in an Inter-Hong cricket match at the Kowloon Cricket Club yesterday.

Steady contributions from Jardines' top scorer among whom was N. J. Epoker (35), enabled them to total 140. G. P. Charlton (4 for 31) and K. M. Baxter (4 for 27), however, made that a winning score for the Bankmen who were all out for 112.

The strong Volunteers batting side were very subdued, and could only manage 137 runs for 7 wickets before declaring—J. M. Gosano contributing 47.

Civil Servants were given an excellent start by D. McLellan (25) and K. J. Atwell (58) and with 34 extras won after 3 wickets had fallen.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

What are pimples? They are a prevalent type of acne starts with the clogging of the oil glands of the skin, especially about the face; then these paste-like plugs become infected by germs present on the skin and a series of pustules is the result. For a quick relief of pimples use:

STILLMAN'S PIMPLE REMOVER

Just apply a very small portion of the cream when retiring at night. Do not rub in, but apply lightly; wash off in the morning with a good soap. Within a few days you will see for yourself its wonderful results.

STILLMAN'S ACTONE (Liquid)

Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries quickly—is invisible. May be applied at home, at the office—wherever you have a few seconds to remove the cap, the chaser and massage the affected area with this liquid. Wonderful results can be expected after a few days' application. For economy and convenience, use the "Chaser". It keeps right after the pimple".

Japanese Reporter Sentenced In Singapore On Defence Charge

"I FEEL THAT THE ACCUSED HAS ABUSED THE PRIVILEGES THAT HE HAS BEEN ALLOWED IN THIS COLONY, AND I SHALL RECOMMEND HIM FOR REPATRIATION," DECLARED MR. CONRAD OLDHAM, SINGAPORE'S SECOND POLICE MAGISTRATE, WHEN HE CONVICTED A JAPANESE PRESS REPORTER, KITSUJI KASHIWABARA, OF COMMITTING AN OFFENCE UNDER THE DEFENCE REGULATIONS.

Kashiwabara was charged with obtaining information of the movements of British troops and aircraft "in a manner likely to prejudice the defence of the Colony."

Kashiwabara, who preferred to say nothing in his defence, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two months' rigorous imprisonment.

He was originally charged with obtaining a record, and communicating to another person, Mamoru Shinosaki, information contained in three reports concerning the movements of His Majesty's forces and aircraft.

The magistrate amended the charge after Kashiwabara had seen the reports and had denied handing them to Shinosaki.

Mr. A. E. G. Blades, A.S.P., Special Branch, who prosecuted agreed, stating that they could only prove the reports were found in Shinosaki's desk, but not that the accused had handed them over to Shinozaki. The alleged offence was committed between May 20 and June 30 this year.

On Sept. 21, said Mr. Blades, during a search of a desk in an office at the Japanese consulate-general, documents were found showing that the desk belonged to Shinozaki, and the three reports were also found in the desk.

On Oct. 16, continued Mr. Blades, in a room of the accused's house at Albert Street was searched and documents on similar paper and of similar handwriting were found. Kashiwabara was detained and his statement, which was admissible under the Defence Regulations, was recorded.

As far as he knew, Mr. Blades said, the case was the first prosecution under this regulation as the accused was a Press reporter when he wrote the documents.

Mr. Oldham: Are you suggesting that-in-mitigation?—Yes. It is his job to do so, but he has gone beyond his job in writing this sort of reports. The police regard it as a serious matter.

Mr. Oldham: Apart from these proceedings, is it open to the Government to expel the accused from the Colony?—That can be done.

Mr. Blades, continuing, said that there was a certain amount of truth in the first of the three reports. The

Leachy For Vichy

Washington, Nov. 23.—Admiral William Leahy, Governor of Puerto Rico and former U.S. Chief of Naval Operations, has been appointed United States Ambassador to Vichy, succeeding Mr. William Bullitt.—Reuter.

French Approval

London, Nov. 24.—The French Government has signed agreement to the appointment of Admiral Leahy as new United States Ambassador to France according to a Vichy report received in Berlin via Geneva.—Reuter.

Serious Case

"The other report shows that he was making inquiries about information of an improper nature. Therefore, I took up the case as a serious one, but it is the first conviction under this section in this court. I am not going to inflict the maximum penalty even under this section." In sentencing Kashiwabara to two months' rigorous imprisonment I will recommend him for repatriation whether the authorities will do so or not. But so far as this court is concerned I shall recommend him for repatriation as I feel that the accused has abused the privileges that have been allowed to him in this Colony," concluded Mr. Oldham.

In a row of bungalows perched on the high cliffs overlooking the English Channel are some of Britain's bravest women. Here, within range of the enemy's coastal batteries, in an area which has been raided day and night for weeks past, a little band of women have started a comforts' and first aid service for soldiers manning isolated cliff defence posts.

Round about them are craters where heavy bombs have crashed. Every day chunks of shell casings rain down when our anti-aircraft batteries are in action, and machine gun bullets rip into the tiles of the bungalows.

But the women carry on, making cakes cutting bread and butter and preparing tea for the grimy-faced men from the posts when there is a lull in the fighting.

Before the war, the bungalows, connected by inner doors, were used as a nursing home. When the area became too unhealthy for patients Miss P. Waddington, the proprietress, stayed on and got a few friends to help her convert the nursing home into a comforts' club for the troops.

Soldiers fatigued and hungry after long hours of watching and fighting, may get baths, have tea, play games, get their hair cut by an expert barber, or their feet dressed by a trained chiropodist.

From the front door of Miss Waddington's bungalow on a clear day one can see houses on the French coast. Perhaps the enemy can see us.

The best man was Mr. George A. Low.

First Aid

In the "surgery" minor cuts and ailments are treated. On rainy days wet uniforms are dried while the men are having hot baths.

"What we are able to do is small compared with what these brave lads are doing," Miss Waddington told reporters.

Their off-duty hours are short and they seldom get into the town. They do not like taking their cuts and bruises and sore feet to their medical men."

From the front door of Miss Waddington's bungalow on a clear day one can see houses on the French coast. Perhaps the enemy can see us.

The best man was Mr. George A. Low.

Mak—De Souza

The name of a prominent Chinese family in Hongkong was linked to that of an old and respected Portuguese family yesterday, when Mr. Mak Pak-to was married to Miss Louisa do Souza at the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Canine Road. The Rev. Fr. G. M. Spada officiated.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Ng Sze-lim, a retired merchant, and Mrs. Ng, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chau Lucy of Calgary, Alberta, Canada. Mr. Lucy is a retired business man. The bride is well known in softball circles, and plays as pitcher for the Chinese Canadian Club.

Machine Guns Used In Attack On Junk

Machete guns were used by pirates who attacked a junk in Chinese waters on November 21.

The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. Mac Wan-hing, well-known merchant of this time, and nephew of Mr. Mak Sul-cho, a prominent business man. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Antonio Zefirino de Souza, retired Customs Officer, and the late Mrs. Mario de Souza.

The best man was Mr. George A. Low.

Machine guns were used by pirates who attacked a junk in Chinese waters on November 21. Kwok Kun, 20, junk master, reported to the Police yesterday that when his cargo boat was sailing off Sam Mun Kwan a pirate's junk approached and fired several shots from machine guns. He and his crew retaliated by using dynamite bombs but they did not prove effective. The pirates who were also armed with rifles and pistols, stole a cargo of rice and peanut oil valued at $4,800.

Duke of Windsor May Get New Job Shortly

By JOAN YOUNGER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Neither the Duke and Duchess of Windsor nor the Bahamians think that the former British king's job as governor of the Bahamas will last very long.

This is the conclusion reached after a month at Nassau during which I "covered" activities of the Windsors, had many conversations with them and talked with innumerable residents and officials.

The last time I spoke to the Duchess, she went so far as to say flatly that she did not consider Government House as "hers" but as an official residence. This fact, she said, underlay all her plans for its redecoration.

"I want to do this house so that the next governor can move right in without having it redecorated," she said. "It isn't as if it were my home—it is an official residence and I want to decorate it to harmonise with anyone's belongings."

The inference that her husband's job as Governor of the Bahamas is only temporary fits in with the general belief in Nassau that the Duke is only stopping off in the small capital on his way to bigger things.

But what these bigger things are is a matter of controversy. Many Bahamians believe that even while governor of the islands, he will serve as an unofficial goodwill ambassador to America. The Duke himself denied this, though he stressed his feeling of friendship for the United States and expressed a wish to "be back soon." He declared that both he and the Duchess would make a trip "after the elections and before the New Year" through the United States, continuing on to Canada to visit his ranch near Calgary.

"America is, after all, the Duchess' own country," he said with a smile at his wife. Bahamas Hopeful

One official told me there was a general feeling that if the Duke asked his brother, King George VI, to be withdrawn, the King would comply with his wishes. And that, the official said, would be tragedy for the Bahamas, a final blow at their embarkation went through with astonishing rapidity and smoothness.

Within five minutes the first lorries were already on their way through the cheering crowds to the town.

All tomires were anxious to know how Greece was faring and were full of admiration for the Greek troops on all fronts.

Men and material were poured in a continuous stream from the warships with a minimum of fuss.

Troops represented the full complement necessary for defence and maintenance of British air bases.

men of the Royal Army Service Corps mingled with engineers and mechanics, hundreds of the Air Force ground staff and New Zealand sappers.

In Good Heart

The men were in high fettle after their trip. During the whole voyage they never saw a single hostile plane or vessel.

Great crowd assembled in the harbour and threw their hats into the air as lorry after lorry raced through the town and a similar welcome was given the troops all along the route.

The sight of British khaki had been cagerly awaited in Greece and the arrival of the troops is bound to have a great effect on Greek morale.

Yugo-Slavia would resist any Italian incursion.

German participation would be regarded much more seriously but even then it is unlikely that she would allow herself to be drawn passively into the Axis yoke.

Russia's attitude, as always, remains enigmatic.

Chinese View

CHUNGKING, Nov. 24 (Reuter)—The "Central Daily News," correspondent says that Hitler has lost freedom of action. "There has been evidence of strong Soviet pressure which is serious enough for a country adopting a defensive role, but for a country adopting the offensive it must be regarded as a serious danger."

After contrasting the vigilance of German comment on the Swedish Press with the "evasive undertones" used in dealing with America's attitude, Dr. Wickman concludes—"Apparently, the London messages disastrous to Germany are to disappear from the Swedish Press not because their publication here would in any way affect the war situation to Germany's disadvantage, but because a German monopoly of the Swedish news service would make the fate of European democracy appear to be sealed—and the claims of 'adaptation' would thus seem irresistible. It is impossible to avoid the impression that the attacks on the Swedish Press are really a determined warfare on the political plane against Sweden's independence and against Swedish democracy."

After the confiscation of the Gothenburg "Handelstidning," the newspaper is again on sale. The reason for the confiscation is a legal clause providing for confiscation without trial in cases where a "misunderstanding with a foreign Power" has arisen.

POPE'S APPEAL FOR PEACE

Emotional Plea Broadcast

Special to the "Telegraph"

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 24 (UP).—In a radio broadcast to the world to-day His Holiness the Pope delivered the strongest appeal for peace he has made since the war started, but apparently he renounced any hope of a peace settlement in the near future.

He implored Christians throughout the whole world to pray to God for peace and hinted that he feels the solution henceforth is in the hands of God while man can only pray.

At 6 p.m. to-day the Pope began a week of spiritual exercises, fasting, seclusion, and meditation, which will continue until 9 p.m. next Saturday.

Tears In His Eyes

He delivered his homily to-day before the altar of St. Peter's and deplored, in a broken voice, the increasing destruction and violence of war. Whenever he mentioned the word "war" his voice quivered and tears welled up into his eyes. He pleaded that when this war is ended a lasting peace based on justice may be found.

"It seems the world is not big enough," he said.

In frequent bursts of anti-aircraft fire punctuated two early evening raids over the London area. The lightness of activity in the metropolitan zone indicated that most of the raiders were again trying to focus picked objectives elsewhere.

A bomb fell in the Home Counties near London damaging a police station and a club, and causing some injuries.

The first brief alarm in London was without incident, and the second came just after the all clear for the first. Two enemy bombers are reported to have been destroyed by fighting planes over the Channel and near Cheltenham respectively.

Several formations of fighters and fighter bombers crossed the southeast coast during the day en route to London. Official reports say they were all dispersed by fighting planes. A few bombs fell in Kent, but the authorities have reported few casualties.

Dover Shelled

German Big Berthas on the French coast shelled "Hell's Corner" around Dover for more than an hour this afternoon. No damage or casualties have been reported.

In the course of the bombardment a British Spitfire streaked across the Channel, circled the German guns at Cap Gris Nez and, on her way home, met four German Messerschmidts, one of which she brought down, while the other three scattered.

Following their policy of concentrating on one district, the German raiders Saturday night pounded the south coast with incendiary and high explosive bombs, causing extensive damage and considerable number of casualties.

Town's Worst Raid

The attack was centred on one town but bombs were dropped on other towns and villages along the coast for a distance of 20 miles. It was the town's heaviest raid since the war commenced. The bombers passed over in continuous waves and dropped flares by hundreds along with incendiary bombs as a preliminary to what officials called an indiscriminate shower of high explosives.

Hardly a district in the town escaped unscathed. Hundreds of people have been rendered homeless and scores of business and commercial establishments have been destroyed—one whole block of buildings being gutted.

Another town on the south coast experienced the longest raid of the

DEATH OF D.G.S. ART MISTRESS

Miss Irma Last, Austrian Refugee Dies Suddenly

The death was reported this morning of Miss Irma Last, art mistress of the Diocesan Girls' School.

The late Miss Last had been in the Colony about two years. She was an Austrian refugee.

She had been in hospital for over a month suffering from acute tonsillitis and was discharged about a week ago apparently well recovered. However, a sharp relapse caused her death at 7 o'clock this morning.

Miss Last was a former Professor in the Faculty of Arts in a Viennese University. She was one of the victims of the Nazi program which sent thousands of Jews abroad in search of new places where they can find peace and friendship.

When Miss Last left Austria she was bereft of all her possessions and was allowed to take only ten marks in the pocket of the country.

An artist of no little ability, the late Miss Last completed a number of portraits of Hongkong residents in addition to her duties as art mistress at the Diocesan Girls' School.

BRITISH SHIP SHELLED

S.O.S. Picked Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—An S.O.S. from the British steamer Port Hobart, saying that she was being shelled by raider" of the West Indies was picked up by the Mackay Radio this afternoon.

Twenty-five minutes earlier the Port Hobart had flashed a warning that she had "sighted a suspicious vessel" and her position was given as about 500 miles north-east of Porto Rico.

Port Hobart is a vessel of 7,448 tons, owned by the Port Lines Limited.

A distress signal from the British steamer Trebats, of 4,871 tons, stating that she had sighted a "suspicious vessel" about 500 miles west of Ireland, was also picked up by the Mackay Radio.

A cheque for $48,100.21, being the equivalent of £3,000, was handed to the Hongkong Government this morning for telegraphic transfer to the Imperial Government, for the purchase of bomber planes.

This makes the fourteenth instalment from the War Fund inaugurated by the "South China Morning Post" and "The Hongkong Telegraph" and brings the total remitted to London to £91,389.19.6.

The dollar total now stands at $1,469,561.82.

It is hoped that the Fund will reach the one-and-a-half million mark before Christmas.

Nazi Girls Plumb New Depths Of Blasphemy

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—"Hitler is no accident. He is a natural continuous product of a breed, which from the dawn of history, has been predatory and belligerent."

So declared Sir Robert Vansittart, Chief Diplomatic Adviser to the Government, broadcasting to-day.

He continued: "We must drop the habit of making allowances for the Germans. It is not fair to ourselves."

Sir Robert likened Germany to a butcher bird, "which looks harmless enough but springs on neighbours when they least expect it."

"It is a hallucination to believe that there is in Germany an effective element of kindly learned old gentlemen and sweet pig-tailed maidens. You will find in the Polish 'Black Book' German girls gloating over the sufferings of their victims. That is less surprising when one remembers that in early times German women were famed for inciting their men to ferocity."

Official League Song

"Nazi girls have gone further. They have become raucously blasphemous. To-day the Official League of German Maidens is singing:

"We've given up the Christian life. For Christ was just a Jewish swine. As for His mother—what a shame—Coher was the lady's real name."

"If Germany, after her long unbroken career of evil-doing, is to cease being a curse to herself and everyone else, she will have to undergo a thorough spiritual cure." Sir Robert concluded.

Inoculation Certificates Protest

Following the Government's refusal to recognise inoculation certificates issued by Chinese doctors, a protest is being made by the Hongkong Chinese Medical Association. The President of the Association, Dr. E. W. Sun, declined to say anything for publication to-day but it is understood that the question has been taken up in a determined manner.

BRITISH NAVY BOMBARDS CHERBOURG

During last month light and heavy forces of the Royal Navy carried out a bombardment of the Nazi-occupied port of Cherbourg, where a concentration of enemy shipping had been detected. The outcome was the total destruction of the major part of the Nazi concentration. In these two pictures we see some of the ships taking part in the bombardment. The photographs were taken at the height of the attack.

British Troops In Greece

First Contingent

(FROM "REUTERS'" CORRESPONDENT IN GREECE)

ATHENS, Nov. 24.—A number of famous British warships in brilliant sunshine slipped quietly into a Greek harbour a few days ago, their decks packed with British and New Zealand troops and airmen waving back to the frenzied thousands of Greeks whose clapping and cheering echoed from hill to hill.

The first warship to berth showed signs of a famous engagement. Within two minutes of the hawsers being hung to the dockside the first British army lorry was landed gracefully from this warship.

Meanwhile British and New Zealand troops competed to be the first to set foot on Greek soil. A typical Cockney won the contest by a narrow margin.

Greeks Continue Advance On Entire Front Into Albania

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—The advance of the Greek troops along the whole front has now carried their left wing over the border into Albania.

Reports reaching London this evening said that the Greeks had taken the small town of Konitsa. This town is near the coast opposite Corfu and is one of the roads leading to Argirokastro.

In the centre the Italians are reported to be trying to reform their line of battle some distance within Albania while their rear-guards make a stand in some of the valleys.

The right Greek wing is still advancing. The Italians are being pushed back from Koritza to Pogradec on the Yugo-Slav border.

There is no news as to exactly how far back the Italians have been pushed but it is thought too much to expect the capture of Pogradec yet.

Premier Of N. Ireland Dies Working To Last

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, is dead.

He was 69 years of age and held a record for tenure of office among modern statesmen. He had been leader of the Northern Ireland Government for over 18 years, being first appointed in June, 1921.

During his long political career, he was a stern opponent of Home Rule and any idea of United Ireland.

Lord Craigavon collapsed to-night at his home at Enniskillen, in Northern Ireland, and died soon afterwards.

BESTIAL BRUTALITY

WAR fought under Queenbury rules is ghastly enough, but when it is governed by Totalitarian regulations as imposed by Hitler, Mussolini and their admirers, it becomes the last word in bestial brutality. Hitler, when he ordered through Goering, the machine-gunning of defenceless women and children, took away from his soldiers what little honour there was left to them. This murderous form of warfare started in France and Belgium and has been continued during air raids over England.

The world has been forced to accept air raids as a necessary feature of modern war; civilians now recognise that they have about the same sporting chance of surviving as did the men in the last war who "went over the top"; at least they have from bombs. But Hitler doesn't believe in sporting chances, and he orders his aerial assassins to dive down on peaceful, inoffensive country towns and villages to machine-gun the unsuspecting inhabitants; Bruno Mussolini and his gangsters did the same thing to the fleeing, defenceless Abyssinians and described it as "great sport". This last week a Hongkong resident learnt that his mother, sister and two-year-old niece were machine-gunned by one of Hitler's air murderers while they were out walking; a nearby railway arch saved them. The same inhuman action is being performed daily over England.

This then is what Britain and the whole Empire has to fight; men whose hands are so stained with the blood of innocents that civilisation will for ever shudder at the recollection. Knowledge of these Hun tactics cannot but brutalise our own fighters, but, thank God, they are incapable of such unspeakable actions. Britons will take vengeance for these Nazi crimes, but not by stooping to the lowest form of warfare that the wit of man has ever devised; we will destroy

W. N. EWER explains why

Hitler can't find his little Fuehrers

"THE Government - Gen- economic questions affecting the whole continent, these satellite States would accept the will of sistance, growing sabotage. Instead of co-operation there corporated in the German Paramount Power.

Hitler must hold every one of these conquered countries by a defeat and a rebuff for Hitler. It means that his plan of setting up a "Quisling" Government in Central Poland has failed.

No Pole of any importance will co-operate with the Germans. The whole people is inullen revolt against its conquerors. And this is true not only of Poland.

Hitler's whole plan for the "reorganisation" of Europe has been based on the "Quisling" idea.

In each conquered or intimidated country a native Government would be set up.

It would be chosen by the Fuehrer.

It would rule by Nazi methods and in accordance with Nazi principles.

It would in all its policy consider the needs of the Reich before those of its own people.

But still it would be a "national" Government—Polish, or Czech or Norwegian or what. And that might gradually reconcile the people to it.

It might settle down.

Such Quisling Governments would spare Germany the bother and the odium of ruling the conquered countries directly.

They have pillaged industry and agriculture and brought thriving people near to starvation.

They have forced men into labour gangs and carried them off to toil as serfs in the Reich.

They themselves claim to have nearly two million workers from the conquered countries labouring in Germany.

You cannot do that and then hope for co-operation.

In military matters, in all relations with the outer world, in ed the Quisling plan.

Plan Fails

They would prepare the way for a Europe of satellite States grouped around the great central power of the Reich.

In military matters, in all relations with the outer world, in ed the Quisling plan.

In a speech delivered by the German Minister of Propaganda, Dr. Goebbels, on the occasion of the anniversary of the war, he devoted particular attention to the Nazi "achievements" in solving the Jewish problem in Germany. Unable to announce inaugurated his rule in the to the German people the fall of Austrian capital by scoring an easy victory against the Jews. One of the first orders issued by him forbids all Jews to appear in the streets of Vienna from 2 to 4 p.m., from 5 to 7 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m.

The municipalities of hundreds of towns in Germany, he declared side by side with the swastika flag a white flag signifying that those towns are "Judenrein" (Jewless).

He also dwelt on the Nazi success in destroying Jewish life in the invaded countries, and on the intentions of the Fuehrer, whom he styled the "genius of Germany", to eradicate the Jews in all countries after his "victorious" conclusion of the war.

In the same speech, however, Dr. Goebbels betrayed the fact that he was not so sure of the might of Germany as he pretended to be. When he dealt with the "evil deeds" of the Jews, whom he accused of sharing with Britain the responsibility for the rejection of Hitler's peace offer, he complained bitterly about the danger of starvation that threatened the countries occupied by the Nazis and he had no explanation to offer to the people on the inability of the "mighty" Nazi forces to frustrate the British blockade.

The new Governor of Vienna, Baldur von Schirach, has also the murderers and their evil leaders. It may take time, but it will be done; and when it has been accomplished, we must see to it that never again shall such barbarity be possible.

The Mere Man

Chinese Press

Censorship have been pointed out time and again in the Colony's English press, and the necessity for a thorough review has, I believe, been urged on many occasions in the Legislative Council. The position, however, remains unchanged. There seems to be little excuse why our rulers cannot spare some energy to remove the anomalies that exist.

To an ordinary man, the objects of censorship would appear to be met if treasonable or grossly calumnious articles and information prejudicial to defence is excised. The British press throughout the world has a censorship of its own in such matters, and it seems that the Government fails to appreciate that Chinese newspapers in the Colony are also keen to uphold the best traditions of their profession. The Chinese press as a whole should not be penalised for the crimes of a few isolated offenders. It is not disputed that there are newspapers here, as anywhere in the world, which would, if allowed, publish anything and everything. These are the papers to keep a vigilant watch over, but the others, who carry on their work honourably, do not deserve to be subjected to the same treatment.

The latest instance to have come to my attention of the incongruity of the local censorship was a ban on the publication of the news of the appointment of Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham to direct a unified Far Eastern Command. The news, cabled from London, appeared in the English afternoon newspapers on the same day, November 14. Yet not a word was allowed to be published in the Chinese papers that day. Can this news be classed as treasonable or prejudicial to defence?

Several months ago, when Japanese bombs landed in the New Territories, the Chinese newspapers were similarly barred from mentioning the fact, while their English contemporaries carried full reports.

The Government should exercise its censorship fairly and efficiently, and it is surprising that the Chinese newspapers in Hongkong have not seriously pressed the matter.

On the other hand, the Government permits the publication of a weekly newspaper in English, by nationals of a country which has practically allied itself with Britain's enemies in the present war, and which has disseminated news and propaganda that is, to say the least, neither flattering to Britain nor helpful to her cause.

The long-awaited Charlie Chaplin satire on Hitler and Mussolini, "The Great Dictator," has been completed, and Hongkong is looking forward eagerly to its showing here. The infinite Charlie appears as Hinkler, complete with the emblem of the "Double Cross," the ludicrous salute and all the other trappings of a Nazi dictator. Jack Oakie takes the part of Benito Mussolini, being a take-off of the megalomaniac of Rome.

Letters from friends abroad tell me that "The Great Dictator" is the best film that Chaplin has done.

Perhaps no news about Chaplin pleases more than that he is going to make several short comedies. In spite of many bright moments, the full-length Charlie Chaplin pictures possessed bald, weary patches. And short films mean that there is a chance of seeing him more often on the screen—a tonic in these days.

No doubt in a city as large as Hongkong, ways of making a living must be many and varied. Only the other night I discovered people engaged on rather curious jobs—or so it appeared to me. Whilst taking a late night stroll through the city, I saw two groups of men working along the length of the tram lines removing rubbish and other accumulations from the rails. It had never dawned on me until that time that the rubbish must be removed somehow, and, of course, it is reasonable to have people doing such work. Yet to me that was a curious and interesting discovery.

Engaging the men in conversation, I found that the two groups work as soon as the last train has "gone to bed." One group begins from the Shaukiwan terminus and another from Kennedy Town, each concentrating on the left-hand pair of lines. The two groups encounter each other nightly somewhere near Garden Road. One group will work tonight from east to west, and make the return journey the next night. Thus they go, alternately.

Speaking of queer occupations, I am told that a wealthy Hongkong resident, who suffers from a digestive ailment, employs a man to count the number of times he chews each morsel of food. It is said that his doctor advised him to practise proper chewing, milk the drink. A mouthful of milk is well-masticated I understand, in 15 chews.

Heavy Raid On Coast Town

FROM A SOUTH COAST TOWN, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Waves of German bombers swooping in from the sea and dropping fire-bombs, subjected this town to its heaviest attack of the war last night.

As they wheeled back for their bases, high explosive bombs crashed down and churches, cinemas, clinics, banks, public buildings, hotels and shops were damaged.

Several fires were caused and the plans tried to concentrate on these, but accurate anti-aircraft fire drove many back.

Southampton Target

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—The German radio claimed that 250 planes heavily attacked the harbour, docks and warehouses in Southampton with high explosive bombs and thousands of incendiaries.

Downed Over Channel

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—An enemy bomber was shot down over the Channel to-day.

It was one of several formations which tried to reach London but were dispersed by defending fighters.

The Air Ministry states that a few bombs were dropped at several points in Kent but casualties and damage were small.

North Sea Chase

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—On the way to Germany, an R.A.F. bomber was attacked over the North Sea by three Junkers, but it kept up a running fight for 20 minutes, by which time the bomber had been forced down from 7,000 to 2,000 feet.

"Just when things were looking bad," said the pilot, "we saw one enemy plane falling in a headlong dive towards the sea with its cockpit ablaze. This was enough for the other two who sheered off."

German fighters were also active during the raid on Berlin when two Messerschmitts attacked an R.A.F. bomber but they broke off the fight after a brief encounter.

Italian Raiders Dispersed

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Low-flying Italian bombers raided Alexandria in the early hours to-day and were dispersed by a withering anti-aircraft fire.

Damage was done to house property and there were several casualties.

Sweden's Planes

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—The crushing R.A.F. attack on the Italian Fleet at Taranto has not been without its lessons for other Powers.

Sweden had decided to spend £3,500,000 on the building of warships but the Swedish Parliament is now considering spending the money on aeroplanes instead.

Remittances From Overseas

KWEIYANG, Nov. 24 (Central News)—Overseas Chinese remittances to China during the current year have amounted to $1,000,000,000, according to banking circles.

The remittances were largely sent to Chungking, Chengtu, Kunming, Kweliang, Kweihsien and Shiuksien to invest in industrial projects.

"Perfect Spiritual Unity"—Nazi Hope

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—The Nazi governor of Holland, Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, has delivered a speech in which he said, according to the Italian news agency, that "Germans and Dutchmen understand each other perfectly since they know that they will end by uniting completely."

Dr. Seyss-Inquart said that he wished to see a "perfect spiritual unity between Holland and Germany."

Mutiny Hero Helping War Effort

Last of the Lucknow survivors, 92-years-old Charles Palmer, is pepping-up the war effort in Canada by forming a group of retired officers and officials in Victoria, B.C., for that object.

As a boy of 10 Charles Palmer had been a munition carrier to the garrison besieged in Lucknow, and, with the death last year of Colonel George Christie at Farnham, he became the last remaining survivor.

Son of the late General Henry Palmer, he served in the Indian Government for 30 years after the Mutiny, and retired in 1910. Falling eye-sight has made him renounce car-driving, but that is only evidence of his great age.

Mr. Palmer, who has seen more British victories than any other living man, says that a nation that could go through the Mutiny cannot fail to win this war.

MONDAY MORNING COMMENTARY

Chinese Federation Win First Governor's Cup Match Association Forwards Fail To Accept Opportunities

(By "Scrambler")

THOUGH BEATEN by the only goal scored by Hau Ching-tau for the Chinese Federation in the second half in the Governor's Cup match yesterday at Caroline Hill, the Association's XI were in no way disgraced, for had their forwards accepted the chances that were presented during the earlier phases of the game, the result would have been different.

COMBINATION CARRIES THE DAY

The brand of football served up was very entertaining, and had its share of exciting and anxious moments for both teams. It was very evenly contested, and the difference was only to be found in the forward line, where the Chinese went about their work methodically and with a purpose contrasting with the Association's forwards, where, although every man worked hard, they went about their work disjointedly.

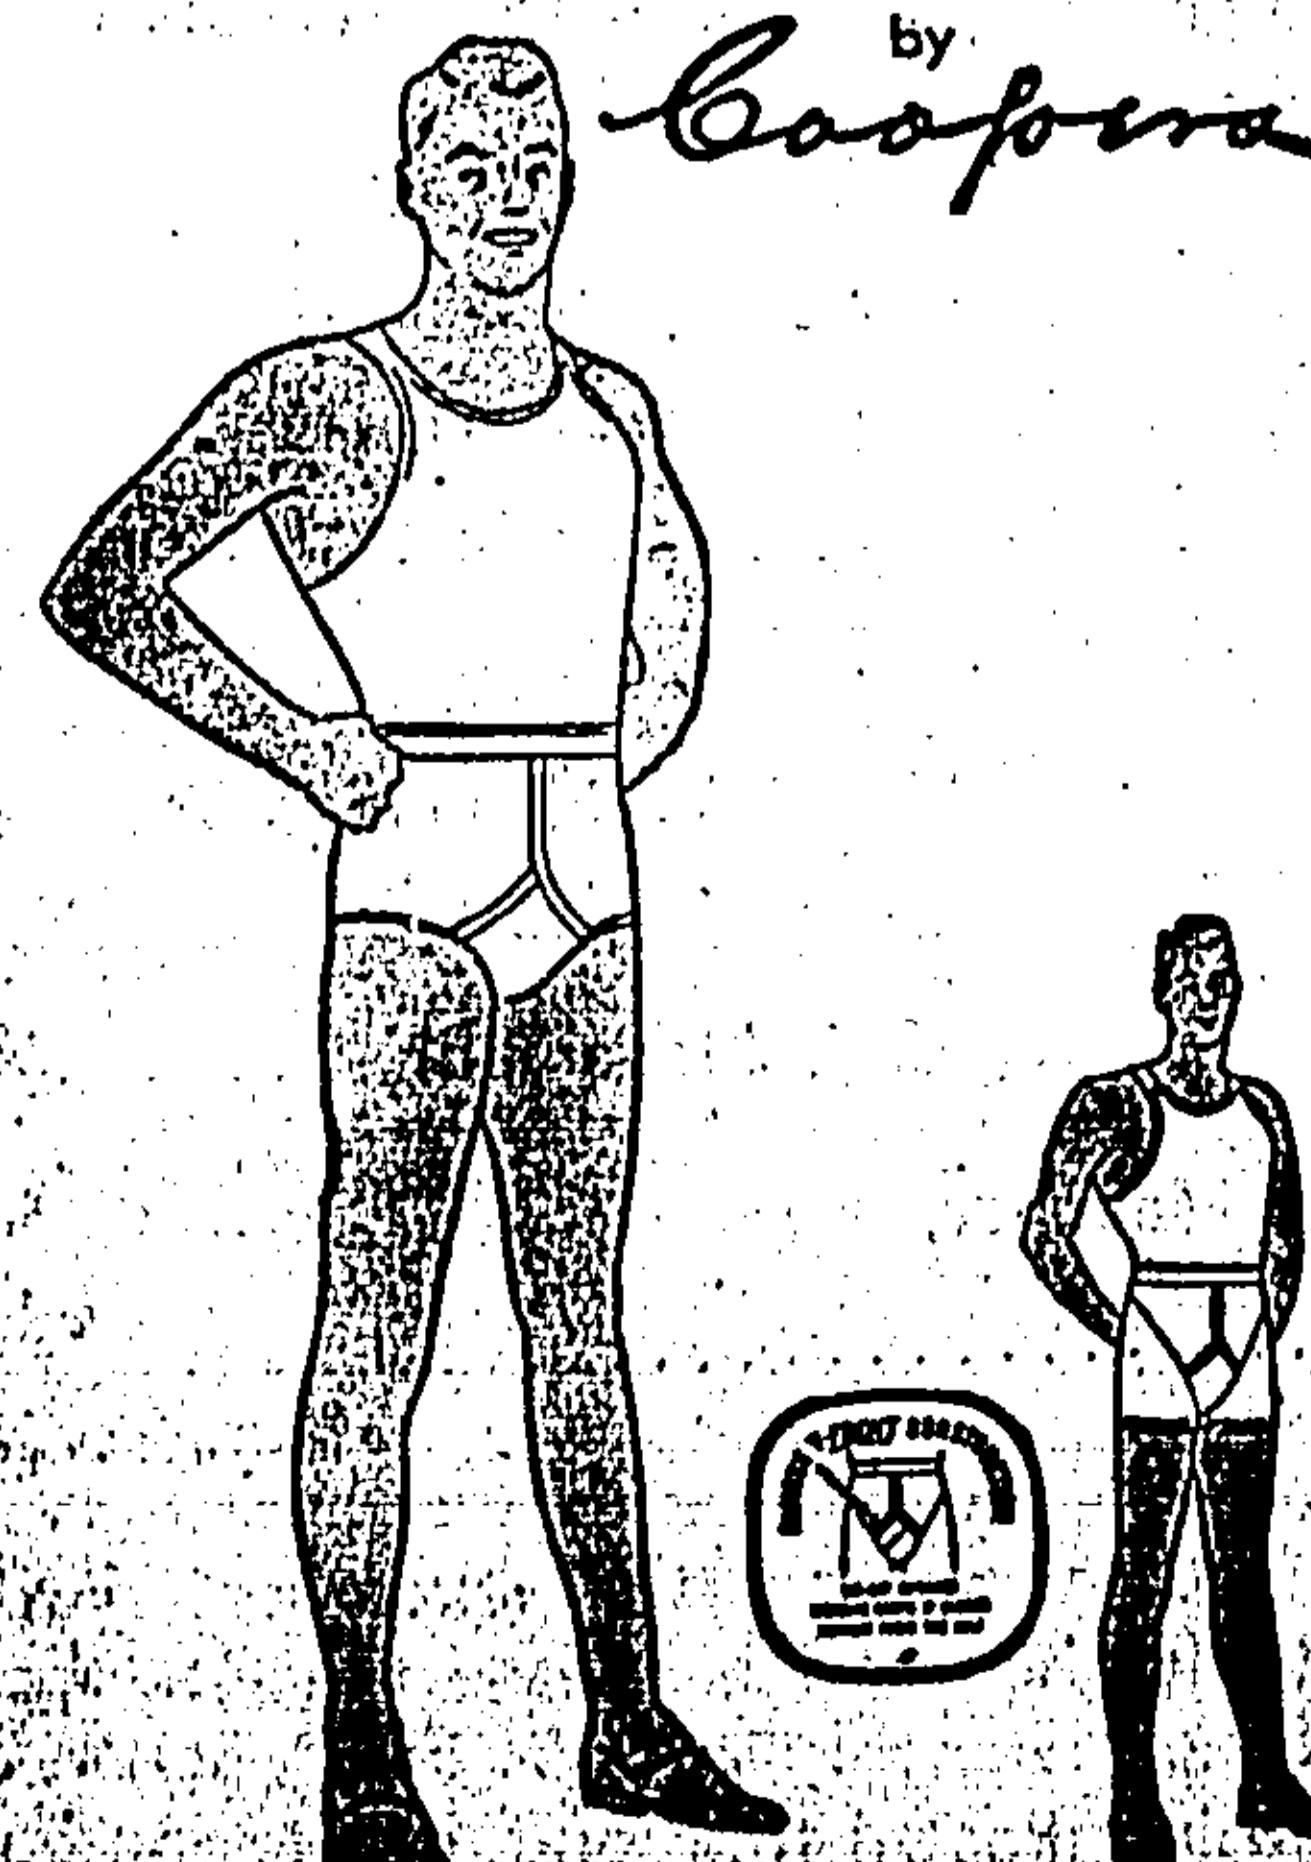

Both defences were put through a gruelling test and came off with flying colours. That no goals were scored during the first forty-five minutes of the game speaks for itself. The Chinese from the start had very good combination in defence, and although the Association's took a little time in settling down, they had the measure of their opponents, and put up as good an exhibition, if not better, than their opponents in the first half.

Both keepers had very little to do in the first half, for play was chiefly confined to midfield. However, Robinson had more to do later in the game, for after scoring that solitary goal, the Chinese played inspired football, and kept attacking for sometime, and it was during this period that the resourcefulness of Robinson was seen at its best. He saved point blank shots from both Chan Tak-fai and Hau Ching-tau, which looked certain goals, and on the whole he had more to do than Cheong Wing-choi and gave a very creditable display.

HARD TACKLING HALVES
THE Association's defence could not have given a better display. Every man played to a standstill. The early understanding between Roughley and Leonard was responsible for their breaking up of many a threatening movement, and their

T. A. PEARCE ELIMINATED FROM CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

FIRST and Second Rounds of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club Championship were played yesterday. Surprise of the First Round was the elimination of T. A. Pearce, Colony Champion, losing one down to D. S. Robt.

F. D. Hunter, third in the Colony Championship and winner of the Jasper Clark Cup, entered the semi-finals when he beat A. E. Lissaman 6 and 5 in the Second Round.

Or the halves, Bright played a very useful game, breaking up movements with precision, and always found time to get his forwards going with nice passes. He had a pair of excellent wing halves in Pope and Freshwater, and between these three, the Chinese were kept in check for a considerable time. They made use of their heads to good advantage.

The forwards played well individually. Had they another man in the person of Saw, their efforts might have been better rewarded. They went about their work with a determined idea—individually only, and when a pass to the winger would have produced the desired result, they invariably played the short passing game, only to see their opponents obtaining possession.

Hendy, Fowler and Howlett worked hard, but lacked cohesion. Howlett in particular was inclined to lie too far back. Of the two wingers, Coomer was the better. He had the knowledge of where the ball was wanted, and sent across many good passes only to see them go begging. Blake did many a fast run down the line, but apart from this he was unable to combine well with his other forwards.

Japanese Reporter Sentenced In Singapore On Defence Charge

"I FEEL THAT THE ACCUSED HAS ABUSED THE PRIVILEGES THAT HE HAS BEEN ALLOWED IN THIS COLONY, AND I SHALL RECOMMEND HIM FOR REPATRIATION," DECLARED MR. CONRAD OLDHAM, SINGAPORE'S SECOND POLICE MAGISTRATE, WHEN HE CONVICTED A JAPANESE PRESS REPORTER, KITSUJI KASHIWABARA, OF COMMITTING AN OFFENCE UNDER THE DEFENCE REGULATIONS.

Kashiwabara was charged with obtaining information of the movements of British troops and aircraft "in a manner likely to prejudice the defence of the Colony."

Kashiwabara, who preferred to say nothing in his defence, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two months' rigorous imprisonment.

He was originally charged with obtaining a record; and communicating to another person, Mamoru Shinotsaki, information contained in three reports concerning the movements of His Majesty's forces and aircraft.

The magistrate amended the charge after Kashiwabara had seen the reports and had denied handing them to Shinotsaki.

Mr. A. E. G. Blades, A.S.P., Special Branch, who prosecuted agreed, stating that they could only prove the reports were found in Shinotsaki's desk, but not that the accused had handed them over to Shinotsaki. The alleged offence was committed between May 20 and June 30 this year.

On Sept. 21, said Mr. Blades, during a search of a desk in an office at the Japanese consulate-general, documents were found showing that the desk belonged to Shinotsaki, and the three reports were also found in the second one, he stated, was based on rumours which were very prevalent at the time, while the third report was based purely on rumour or fantasy.

Source of Information

Mr. Oldham: It shows that the accused was in touch with a source of information which he should not have been.

Mr. Blades: Yes, he might have got something far more accurate and far more informative. The second report suggested that he was trying to obtain information in a manner which was not proper. It was not as serious as the first.

Mr. Oldham: As regards the third report, I do not find very much harm has been done, as a Press reporter might very well have written merely from imagination or from rumour.

Delivering his judgment, the magistrate said: "I am taking into account the fact that the accused is a Press reporter and so it was not unreasonable for him to collect information. But two of these reports show, that in regard to the first one, Kashiwabara obtained information from a source which was definitely illegal and which was definitely very illegal for him to get in contact with.

Serious Case

The other report shows that he was making inquiries about information of an improper nature. Therefore, I look upon the case as a serious one, but as it is the first conviction under this section in this court, I am not going to inflict the maximum penalty even under this section.

"In sentencing Kashiwabara to two months' rigorous imprisonment, I will recommend him for repatriation whether the authorities will do so or not. But so far as this court is concerned I shall recommend him for repatriation as I feel that the accused has abused the privileges that have been allowed to him in this Colony," concluded Mr. Oldham.

In a row of bungalows perched on the high cliffs overlooking the English Channel are some of Britain's bravest women. Here, within range of the enemy's coastal batteries, in an area which has been raided day and night for weeks past, a little band of women have started a comforts and first aid service for soldiers manning isolated cliff defence posts.

Round about them are craters where heavy bombs have crashed. Every day chunks of shell casings rain down when our anti-aircraft batteries are in action, and machine gun bullets rip into the tiles of the bungalows.

But the women carry on, making cakes cutting bread and butter and preparing tea for the grimy-faced men from the posts when there is a lull in the fighting.

Before the war, the bungalows, connected by inner doors, were used as a nursing home. When the area became too unhealthy for patients Miss P. Waddington, the proprietress, stayed on and got a few friends to help her convert the nursing home into a comforts club for the troops.

Soldiers "survived" and hungry after long hours of watching and fighting, may get hot baths, have tea, play games, get their hair cut by an expert barbers, or their feet dressed by a trained chiropodist.

Milk—De Souza

In the "surgery" minor cuts and ailments are treated. On rainy days wet uniforms are dried while the men are having hot baths.

"What we are able to do is small, compared with what these brave ladies are doing," Miss Waddington told reporters.

Their off-duty hours are short, and they seldom get into the town. They do not like taking their cuts and bruises and sore feet to their medical men.

From the front door of Miss Waddington's bungalow on a clear day one can see houses on the French coast. Perhaps the enemy can see the Union Jack flag has hung out as her club sign.

Machine Guns Used In Attack On Junk

The name of a prominent Chinese man in Hongkong was linked to that of an old and respected Portuguese family yesterday, when Mr. Mak Pak-lo was married to Miss Louisa de Souza at the Roman Catholic Cathedral, Caine Road. The Rev. Fr. G. M. Spada officiated.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

What are pimples? They are a prevalent type of acne starts with the clogging of the oil glands of the skin, especially about the face; then these pimple-like plugs become infected by germs present on the skin and a series of pustules is the result. For a quick relief of pimples, use:

STILLMAN'S PIMPLE REMOVER

Just apply a very small portion of the cream when retiring at night. Do not rub in, but apply lightly: wash off in the morning with a good soap. Within a few days you will see for yourself its wonderful results.

STILLMAN'S ACTONE (Liquid)

Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries quickly—is invisible. May be applied at home, at the office—wherever you have a few seconds to remove the cap, the chaser and moisten the affected area with this liquid. Wonderful results can be expected after a few days' application. For economy and convenience, use the "Chaser". It keeps right after the pimple!"

embarkation went through with astonishing rapidity and smoothness. Within five minutes the first lorries were already on their way through the cheering crowds to the town.

All tommy's were anxious to know how Greece was faring and were full of admiration for the Greek troops on all fronts.

Men and material were poured in a continuous stream from the warships with a minimum of fuss. Troops represented the full complement necessary for defence and maintenance of British air basesmen of the Royal Army Service Corps, mingled with engineers and mechanics, hundreds of the Air Force ground staff and New Zealanders.

In Good Heart

The men were in high fettle after their trip. During the whole voyage or vessel.

Great crowd assembled in the harbour and threw their hats into the air as lorry after lorry raced through the town and a similar welcome was given the troops all along the route.

The sight of British khaki had been eagerly awaited in Greece and the arrival of the troops is bound to have a great effect on Greek morale.

enough to contain the contentious aspirations of men.

"Instead of ending, destruction continues to increase," he said in a sad voice.

"We cry out in pain. I invite all believers in Christ to pray to God for peace. May Christian justice balance the scales between the victor and vanquished."

Federation Win First Match

was rarely tested, though when called upon to perform, he saved with his usual confidence. Hau Yung-sang and Lee Tin-sang formed a pair of solid backs, and had the Association's forwards well covered. They were in turn well supported by their front men Ng Kee-cheong, Leung Wing-ohu, Soong Ling-chung. This middle-trio combined well with their forwards, and their many short tapping passes to their forwards were nice to behold.

They were inclined to play the low passing game, and though beaten by the Association's forwards now and again, they were never seriously challenged, except after the change over, when they were given a very trying time for about ten minutes.

As stated, the superiority of the Chinese team was to be found in their forward line, where they worked and combined harmoniously together. They went about their work with a fixed purpose and Lal Shui-wing supplying the brains in their schemes, it was left to Chan Tak-fai to break through with his thrustful dashing.

V. K. Hyui played a very sound game, and gave good support. Of the two wingers, it was Hau Ching-tau who caught the eye. Besides scoring the only goal of the match, he was responsible for many a dangerous situation.

Even Encounter

THE first half was played at a very fast pace, but play was mostly confined to midfield, where the defences were on top. The game was very even and both keepers if they were ever tested, were tested weakly.

Changing over with no score, the Chinese were the first to attack, and Chan Tak-fai had bad luck to see a shot striking the crossbar and rebounded into play. The ball was being constantly swing from one end to the other. First Cheong Wing-choi was called to save from Fowler and later Robinson cleared from Lal Shui-wing.

After fifteen minutes play, Hau Ching-tau received a pass from Lal Shui-wing, and although being followed by three opponents, he swerved to send in a hard cross shot that had Robinson beaten all the way.

Encouraged greatly by this goal, the Chinese kept up a terrific pressure and had the Association's defence on tenterhooks. For a spell their raids were kept out and then it was the turn of the Association's forwards to lead the Chinese round a merry dance. First it was Coomer's shot that had Cheong Wing-choi completely beaten, but the shot struck the upright, and then Hendy repeated the same performance. It was indeed bad luck, for both the shots were splendid efforts and culminated from movements which began in midfield.

The Chinese thereafter kept up steam and bombarded the Association's goal. Robinson was called upon to save in quick succession from Lal Shui-wing and Chan Tak-fai respectively and cleared his charge well.

It was certainly due to his brilliant goal keeping at this period that the score was kept at this level.

The Association made sporadic raids, and these were repulsed. Their defence was being given a very hard time but came out on top despite the constant raids.

increased anxiety caused by war conditions told severely on his health.

Ulster Starvation

Lord Craigavon blunt-spoken, bullet-headed Ulster stalwart and first Prime Minister of Northern Ireland held the world's long distance endurance record for tenure of a premiership.

Since June, 1931, his leadership virtually unchallenged, he guided the destinies of the one-and-a-quarter million predominantly Protestant, staunchly pro-British inhabitants of the six counties of Northern Ireland. No other living Prime Minister has held such a lengthy tenure of office.

It is believed that Lord Craigavon also set an all-time world record for an unbroken spell of office as Prime Minister.

Across the stormy Northern Ireland-Free State border since March, 1932, Lord Craigavon faced President Emanuele de Valera whose avowed policy is the swallow-tip Protestant, unionist Ulster into a mainly Catholic all-Ireland republic, with only the slenderest of constitutional threads to link it to the British Empire.

Craigavon made no secret at any time of his determination to resist to the utmost any attempt to bring the six counties of the north under the rule of Dublin. Most of his life's job, in fact, was battling for Ulster linked to Great Britain and free from southern Irish domination.

Born Scots-Irish

James Craig—he was created Viscount Craigavon in 1927, was born in Craigavon, County Down. He was the youngest of six stalwart sons of James and Eleanor Craig—austere Scots-Irish and Protestant to the core. As a child he was subjected to rigorous discipline at home followed by an education at Murchiston School, Edinburgh.

Craig the fighter emerged for the first time during the Boer War. He raised and equipped a regiment of militia from his own hot-blooded fellow-countrymen of County Down and took part in several important fights. He returned with an honorary commission and two medals.

"Carson's Army"

Thirteen years later, at the outbreak of the Great War, the same brawny, pugnacious Captain James Craig—he had been a member of the British parliament since 1900—stamped around Ulster, drumming up and organising volunteers. Eventually he turned out a redoubtable force known as the Ulster Volunteers or "Carson's Army," after that other great Ulster patriot Lord Carson, the "Lion of Ulster." It was a bitter disappointment to Craig that ill-health made it impossible for him to see active service in the Great War.

In the parliament at Westminster, where he served from 1900 to 1921, Craig was known for his blunt, battering-ram mode of attack and for his appallingly mixed metaphors. One of these remembered against him was when he roared impassionedly in his rich Irish brogue and from the depths of his conviction "The naked sword is drawn for the fight, and, gentlemen, never again will the black smoke of Nationalist tar barrels drift on the Home Rule wind to darken the hearts of Englishmen."

Sinn Fein Revolt

Less than two years after the Great War Ireland was plunged into bloodshed and rebellion, with the Sinn-Féin army—under Eamon de Valera fighting the British crown forces up and down the island to establish an Irish Republic. In the midst of these disorders Sir James Craig—he had been created a baronet in 1918—spokesman of the unionist North, boldly stalked into the enemy's camp, unarmed and unattended, and demanded an interview with his arch-enemy de Valera. The interview was granted and Craig left without being touched.

A year later, in 1921, to calm the fears of Ulstermen that they might be brought under southern domination, a partly self-governing Northern Ireland comprising six counties was created with its own parliament to deal with internal matters. Sir James Craig, the lifelong Ulster stalwart, was elected Prime Minister of Northern Ireland still racked by civil war. Within a short period this, one of the smallest dominions of the British Empire, was hailed as one of the best governed. Even during the years of deepest economic depression, from which industrial Belfast suffered severely, Northern Ireland was able to show a balanced budget.

Man of Character

Over six feet tall, powerful and thick-set, Viscount Craigavon with his red face and damaged nose had almost the appearance of a pugilist. Like Stanley Baldwin, he was an inveterate pipe-smoker. On one occasion he scandalized a starchy British Parliamentary committee by turning up smoking a battle-scared and fruity briar. He was an aristocrat by birth and upbringing but he never lost his characteristic Ulster brogue. He was no great hand at speechmaking but when he did speak it was bluntly and very much to the point.

His favourite recreations were solving crossword puzzles and reading detective thrillers.

Lord Craigavon was married to an Englishwoman and had two sons and one daughter.

object of further increasing the preparedness.

Soldiers Called Up

A large army has been mobilised and its numbers are steadily increasing.

The hope is expressed here that these precautions will discourage the Axis Powers from presenting Turkey with a short-term ultimatum and, particularly, it is hoped they will have a cooling effect on Bulgaria.

Whether or not the hope is realised, these countries cannot have any doubts as to Turkey's determination to be ready for all eventualities.

Hurry's Viewpoint

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter)—While the Bulgarian Prime Minister, M. Florov, and the Foreign Minister, M. Popoff, are reported to be speeding on their way to Berlin, Axis-inspired rumours suggest that Bulgaria will be the next country to sign the tripartite pact, says "Reuter's" Diplomatic Correspondent.

Already, he adds, the "Voce d'Italia" has declared that "Bulgaria has ranged herself on the side of the Axis Powers not as a neutral but as a belligerent."

No Passage For Troops

This may be premature, for even though Bulgaria, through threats or blandishments, feels herself impelled to join the "New Order," it does not mean that the country will at once be used as a corridor for German troops alding Italy.

The Turkish attitude regarding the passage of troops through Bulgaria has been made perfectly clear, and the recent security measures taken in that country shows that she is fully prepared to defend her vital interests.

The signing of the tripartite pact has made no appreciable change in the situation.

The only three countries which have signed with the Axis are those which were already dominated by Nazi influence or Nazi arms.

Yugo-Slav Resistance

In the meantime Yugo-Slav resistance to the Axis is stiffening as the result of the Italian defeat in Greece and it seems certain that Yugo-Slavia would resist any Italian incursion.

German participation would be regarded much more seriously but even then it is unlikely that she would allow herself to be drawn passively into the Axis yoke.

Russia's attitude, as always, remains enigmatic.

Chinese View

CHUNGKING, Nov. 24 (Reuter)—The "Central Daily News," correspondent says that Hitler has lost friends of steel. There has been evidence of strong Soviet pressure which is serious enough for a country adopting a defensive role, but for a country adopting the offensive it must be regarded as a serious danger."

Say Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (UP)—Authoritative circles stated the Luftwaffe pounded Southampton with 340 tons of explosives and thousands of incendiary bombs all night on Saturday.

The official news agency stated that Southampton was singled out for a "main attack" at night and that 250 bombers were concentrated on the job. It said that bombs were showered on docks, harbour works and warehouses, and that many fires were started in addition to heavy explosions.

It was claimed that "other heavy bomber formations" attacked London, Liverpool, Birkenhead and Bristol and that fires were seen in many areas. The raid on London centred on the Government districts and the coast end.

Claim Cruisers Sunk

The German High Command reported that a U-boat sank six armed enemy merchantmen aggregating 20,100 tons, but details are not yet available.

They said that most of the R.A.F. planes which were trying to invade Germany Saturday night were driven back by heavy anti-air gun fire and were unable to reach their targets. They admitted that some bombs fell on one small town and in open country.

During the early hours of Saturday the German air attacks was directed against Portsmouth and Southampton and the other attacks were against Birmingham. They said that "several hundred" German planes participated and dropped more than 600,000 pounds of bombs. Fires and explosions on important military objectives were observed.

Spasmodic Raids

LONDON, Nov. 25 (UP)—Long raiders appeared spasmodically over London and the provinces last night and dropped a few bombs on three districts, causing some damage and a few casualties.

There are no other reports of air activity from the whole of Britain.

Watchers on the Isle of Wight report seeing a night raider crash in flames at sea.

Several houses were damaged when bombs fell in one London area in the second night raid, but most of the occupants were in a shelter in a nearby laundry, and were unscathed.

retreating Fascists and disrupting communications. The further the Greek advance goes the more difficult becomes the task of the Italian air force, for the three Italian aerodromes at Argyrokostra are in Greek hands while the airfield at Argyrokostra is threatened.

SMASHING RAIDS BY R.A.F. SET NAZI & ITALIAN CITIES ABLAZE

H.K. Helps To Make Raids Possible

A cheque for $48,100.21, being the equivalent of £3,000, was handed to the Hongkong Government this morning for telegraphic transfer to the Imperial Government, for the purchase of bomber planes.

This makes the fourteenth instalment from the War Fund inaugurated by the "South China Morning Post" and "The Hongkong Telegraph," and brings the total remitted to London to £91,389.19.6.

The dollar total now stands at $1,469,561.82.

It is hoped that the Fund will reach the one-and-a-half million mark before Christmas.

POPE'S APPEAL FOR PEACE

Emotional Plea Broadcast

Special to the "Telegraph"

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 24 (UP).—In a radio broadcast to the world to-day His Holiness the Pope delivered the strongest appeal for peace he has made since the war started, but apparently he renounced any hope of a peace settlement in the near future.

He implored Christians throughout the whole world to pray to God for peace and hinted that he feels the solution henceforth is in the hands of God while man can only pray.

At 6 p.m. to-day the Pope began a week of spiritual exercises, fasting, seclusion and meditation which will continue until 9 p.m. next Saturday.

Tears In His Eyes

He delivered his homily to-day before the altar of St. Peters and deplored, in a broken voice, the increasing destruction and violence of war. Whenever he mentioned the word "war" his voice quivered and tears welled up into his eyes. He pleaded that when this war is ended a lasting peace based on justice may be found.

It seems the world is not big enough to contain the contentious aspirations of men.

"Instead of ending, destruction continues to increase," he said in a sad voice.

"We cry out in pain, I invite all believers in Christ to pray to God for peace. May Christian Justice balance the scales between the victor and vanquished."

BRITISH SHIP SHELLED

S.O.S. Picked Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—An S.O.S. from the British steamer Port Hobart, saying that she was being shelled by a raider off the West Indies was picked up by the Mackay Radio this afternoon.

Twenty-five minutes earlier the Port Hobart had flashed a warning that she had "sighted a suspicious vessel" and her position was given as about 500 miles north-east of Porto Rico.

Port Hobart is a vessel of 7,448 tons owned by the Port Lines Limited.

A distress signal from the British steamer Trebats, of 4,677 tons, stating that she had sighted a suspicious vessel 500 miles west of Ireland was also picked up by the Mackay Radio.

LONDON, NOV. 24 (UP).—THE ROYAL AIR FORCE IS REPORTED TO HAVE CARRIED OUT ONE OF ITS MOST SWEEPING OFFENSIVES AGAINST THE AXIS POWERS TO-DAY WHEN THEY SPREAD FLAMING DESTRUCTION FROM NORWAY AND THROUGH THE HEART OF BERLIN TO ITALY.

The Air Ministry said among the great number of military objectives raided on Saturday were the railway station of Potsdam and other communications, the Royal Arsenal at Berlin, the Fiat motor works at Turin, the Krupp works at Essen, harbour fixtures along the coast and widely scattered factories and aerodromes as well as the wireless station at Vikero on the Norwegian coast.

One British pilot counted 23 explosions at Turin and "there is no doubt that severe damage was caused," declared the Air Ministry communiqué.

Another pilot saw fires burning many miles behind while another bomber claimed a bulls-eye hit on the Potsdamer railway station in Berlin, where he saw fires break out and heard three great explosions.

The Air Ministry further reported scores of blazes in Pulitzer Strasse and the freight yards in Berlin.

"A pilot counted ten fires, all very large which lit up the inside of his plane," the announcement said.

PILOT COUNTS 28 BLAZES

The same British pilot said he counted 28 blazes in the same area soon afterwards.

The British planes reached Berlin early in the evening and to the raiding one British bomber was attacked over the North Sea by three Junkers, and in a fight which lasted for 20 minutes one German plane was brought down. After the main force of the raid on Berlin was spent, a pilot reported an "uncanny silence" over the city.

The Air Ministry said that British planes launched "another heavy attack on Germany's great inland ports of Duisburg-Ruhrort on the Rhine, and targets at Cologne, as well as railway sidings at Dortmund." Big fires were seen after attacks on oil targets at Wanne-Eickel and Dortmund, while railway objectives were attacked at Leipzig.

Coastal command planes, in conjunction with the Fleet Air Arm, attacked German torpedo-boat stations at Lorient, dry docks at Brest, and harbour works and railway approaches at Boulogne.

France Demands Reparations

VICHY, Nov. 24 (UP).—The French Government has demanded a formal apology and full reparations from Britain for the bombing of Marcellus last night.

The Government said that Royal Air Force planes circled the city for more than an hour between 10.30 p.m. and midnight when they dropped at least ten bombs despite anti-aircraft fire, while four people were killed, five wounded and twenty fires started.

The report added that several bombs fell near the heart of the city, and others in the suburbs near the famed church, Notre Dame de la Gardo, on the heights dominating the port.

Over Toulon

The British planes also flew over the naval base of Toulon east of Marseilles at 11 p.m., causing the air raid alarm to be in operation for an hour. The defence batteries at Marseilles and Toulon and the coastal batteries between the two ports fired heavily but ineffectively.

It is noteworthy that this is the first air raid alarm in Marseilles since the fierce Italian raid a few hours before the armistice was signed.

The discovery of anti-Italian tracts dropped throughout the city and the examination of unexploded bombs leaves no doubt as to the nationality of the planes," continued the report.

British Denial

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (UP).—The story that British planes bombed Marseilles is not true. Nothing is known of the reported Vichy protest to Britain against the supposed bombing of Marseilles by British planes. No protest has yet been received.

Marseilles is in unoccupied France and is not on the British bombing list."

This was the version of the British Broadcasting Corporation's spokesman, picked up by the Columbia Broadcast System's London station trying to make it clear that the news of the raid on Marseilles had been

The photographs were taken at the height of the attack.

Greeks Occupy Outskirts Of Argyrocastro, Says Report

Special to the "Telegraph"

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (UP).—Greek forces have occupied the outskirts of Argyrocastro, according to unconfirmed reports broadcast by the British Broadcast Corporation intercepted here.

Aerodrome Threatened

LONDON, Nov. 24 (UP).—The Italian aerodrome at Argyrocastro is threatened with capture according to Exchange Telegraph from Athens.

The Italian bases at Tirana and Valona were heavily bombed to-day, the report adds.

Advance Into Albania

ATHENS, Nov. 24 (UP).—A Greek G.I.Q. communiqué states that further 1,600 Italian prisoners were taken in the Koritzia region with 12 heavy guns, several mortars and other material.

The occupation of Metropolis 30 miles into Albania is officially claimed and Greek troops are stated to be on the main road leading to Elbasan.

Three retreating Italian columns were bombed by Greek planes with great success.

Large fires are reported to have been seen at Santu Quadrato on the coast 20 miles to the north of the frontier.

Greeks Continue Advance

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—The advance of the Greek troops along the main road leading to the frontier has now reached the town of Konitsa in the northern part of the country.

The Greeks are advancing warily and are not stopping to collect the bodies of the Italians they are leaving behind.

This push is being helped by British bombers, which are harassing the retreating Fascists and disrupting communications. The further the Greeks advance the more difficult becomes the task of the Italian air force, for the three Italian aerodromes at Koritzia are in Greek hands while the airfield at Argyrocastro is threatened.

SHANGHAI HUNT INCIDENT

Riders Threatened

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

SHANGHAI, Nov. 25 (UP).—

Angry Chinese farmers brandishing clubs and bamboo poles threatened foreign members of the Shanghai Paper Hunt Club yesterday.

They beat up a hired Chinese "fox" while members of the Club rode through fields during the annual equestrian paper chase in the Hung-jao areas near the International Settlement.

Two farmers, according to unconfirmed reports, pulled revolvers from their gowns but did not use them, they also barricaded the hunt route at several places.

One horseman galloped through a farmer's house through the front door and out of the back door when he was unable to get around one barrier any other way.

Shanghai police prevented threats of injury to Club members, who have promised to pay for any damage they caused.

ATHENS, Nov. 24 (UP).—The Greek War Ministry in a communiqué issued to-day stated that the Greeks continued their advance along the entire front occupying Metropolis and taking 1,600 prisoners while mopping up the Koritzia area.

Greek aviation succeeded in bombing three retreating Italian columns.

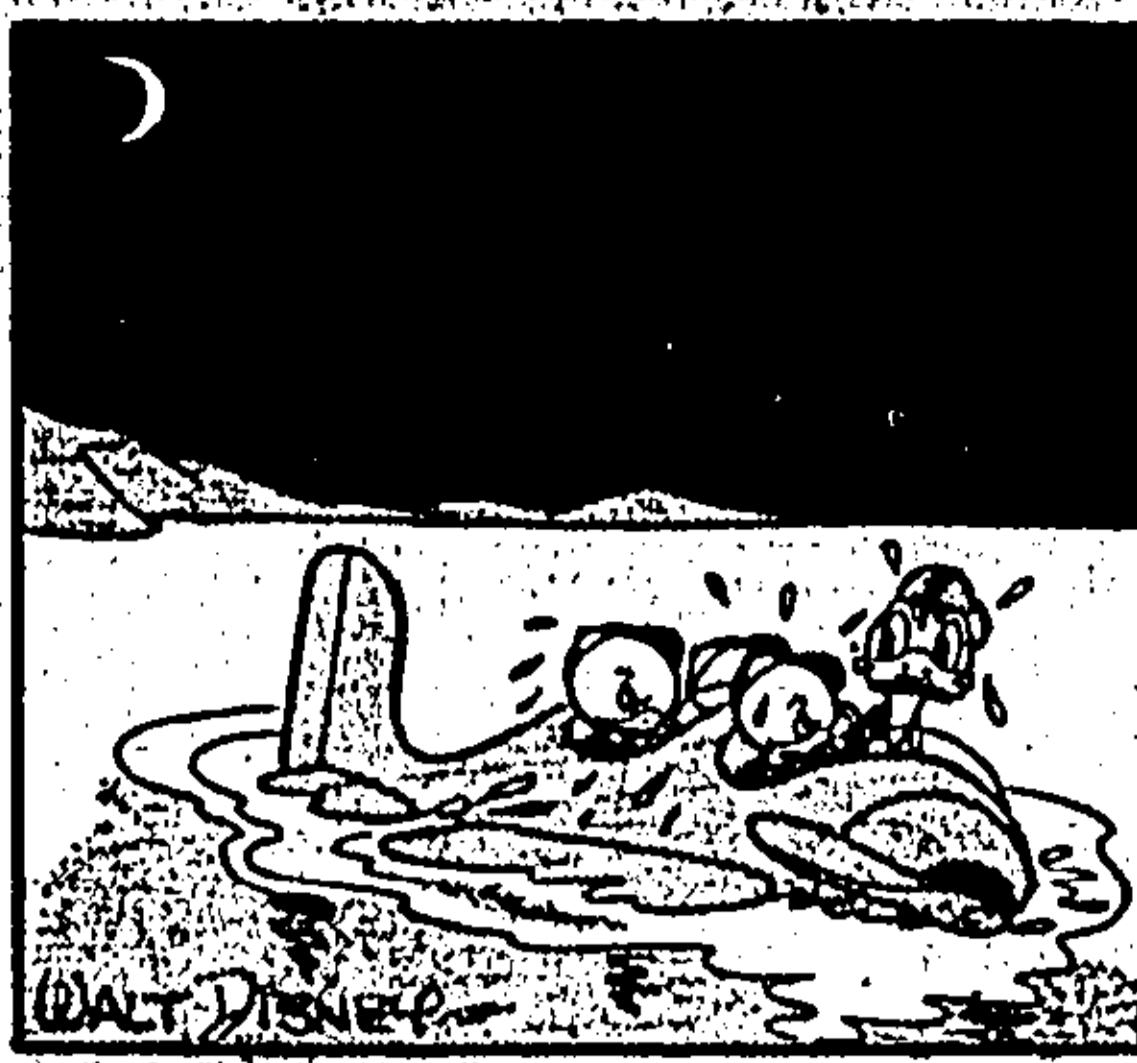

The Ministry of Public Works said that no Italian raids had been made on the interior of Greece.

was rarely tested, though when called upon to perform, he saved with his usual confidence. Hau Yung-sang and Lee Tin-sang formed a pair of solid backs, and had the Association's forwards well covered. They were in turn well supported by their front men Ng Kee-cheong, Leung Wing-chiu and Soong Ling-ting. This middle trio combined well with their forwards, and their many short tapping passes to their forwards were nice to behold.

They were inclined to play the low passing game, and though beaten by the Association's forwards now and again, they were never seriously challenged, except after the change over, when they were given a very trying time for about ten minutes.

As stated, the superiority of the Chinese team was to be found in their forward line, where they worked and combined harmoniously together. They went about their work with a fixed purpose and with Lal Shui-wing supplying the brains in their schemes. It was left to Chan Tak-fai to break through with his thrustful dashing.

V. K. Hyul played a very sound game, and gave good support. Of the two wingers, it was Hau Ching-tau who caught the eye. Besides scoring the only goal of the match, he was responsible for many a dangerous situation.

Even Encounter

THE first half was played at a very fast pace, but play was mostly confined to midfield, where the defences were on top. The game was very even and both keepers if they were ever tested, were tested weakly.

Changing over with no score, the Chinese were the first to attack, and Chan Tak-fai had bad luck to see a shot striking the crossbar and rebounded into play. The ball was being constantly swung from one end to the other. First Cheong Wing-choi was called to save from Fowler and later Robinson cleared from Lal Shui-wing.

After fifteen minutes play, Hau Ching-tau received a pass from Lal Shui-wing and although being swerved to send in a hard cross shot that had Robinson beaten all the way.

Encouraged greatly by this goal, the Chinese kept up a terrific pressure and had the Association's defence on tenterhooks. For a spell their raids were kept out and then it was the turn of the Association's forwards to lead the Chinese round guard a merry dance. First it was Coomer's shot that had Cheong Wing-choi completely beaten, but the shot struck the upright, and then Hendy repeated the same performance. It was indeed bad luck, for both the shots were splendid efforts and culminated in movements which began in midfield.

The Chinese thereafter kept up steam and bombarded the Association's goal. Robinson was called upon to save in quick succession from Lal Shui-wing and Chan Tak-fai respectively and cleared his charge well.

It was mainly due to his brilliant goal keeping at this period that the score was kept at this level.

The Association made sporadic raids, and these were repulsed. Their defence was being given, a very hard time but came out on top despite the constant raids.

Premier Of N. Ireland Dies Working To Last

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—Viscount Craigavon, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, is dead.

He was 69 years of age and held a record for tenure of office among modern statesmen. He had been leader of the Northern Ireland Government for over 18 years, being first appointed in June, 1921.

During his long political career, he was a stern opponent of Home Rule and an ideal of United Irish.

Lord Craigavon collapsed to-night at his home at Glenraig, near Belfast, and died soon afterwards.

Lord Craigavon had addressed a sitting of the Northern Ireland Parliament last Tuesday. He had been working under a severe strain and the increased anxiety caused by war conditions told severely on his health.

Ulster Stalwart

Lord Craigavon blunt-spoken, bull-necked Ulster stalwart and first Prime Minister of Northern Ireland held the world's long distance endurance record for tenure of a premiership.

Since June, 1931, his leadership virtually unchallenged, he guided the destiny of the one-and-a-quarter million predominantly Protestant, staunchly pro-British inhabitants of the six counties of Northern Ireland. No other living Prime Minister has held such a lengthy tenure of office. It is believed that Lord Craigavon also set an all-time world record for an unbroken spell of office as Prime Minister.

Across the stormy Northern Ireland-Free State border since March, 1932, Lord Craigavon faced President Eamon de Valera whose avowed objective is to swallow up Protestant, unionist Ulster into a mainly Catholic all-Ireland republic, with only the slenderest of constitutional threads to link it to the British Empire.

Craigavon made no secret at any time of his determination to resist to the utmost any attempt to bring the six counties of the north under the rule of Dublin. Most of his life's job, in fact, was battling for an Ulster linked to Great Britain and free from southern Irish domination.

After fifteen minutes play, Hau Ching-tau received a pass from Lal Shui-wing and although being swerved to send in a hard cross shot that had Robinson beaten all the way.

Encouraged greatly by this goal, the Chinese kept up a terrific pressure and had the Association's defence on tenterhooks. For a spell their raids were kept out and then it was the turn of the Association's forwards to lead the Chinese round guard a merry dance. First it was Coomer's shot that had Cheong Wing-choi completely beaten, but the shot struck the upright, and then Hendy repeated the same performance.

It was indeed bad luck, for both the shots were splendid efforts and culminated in movements which began in midfield.

The Chinese thereafter kept up steam and bombarded the Association's goal. Robinson was called upon to save in quick succession from Lal Shui-wing and Chan Tak-fai respectively and cleared his charge well.

It was mainly due to his brilliant goal keeping at this period that the score was kept at this level.

The Association made sporadic raids, and these were repulsed. Their defence was being given, a very hard time but came out on top despite the constant raids.

Chinese—Cheong Wing-choi; Hau Yung-sang; Tung-kieng; Sam Ling-sing; Cheung Yung-sum; V. K. Hyul; Chan Tak-fai; Lal Shui-wing; Hau Ching-tau.

Assistants—John Houghtley, Leo Hendy, Peter Bright, Coomer, Fowler, Howlett, Blake.

Reply To Sydney Petition. It has been officially indicated that there is little likelihood of it being possible to allow the return of the Hongkong evacuees in the near future.

This is revealed in a letter from the Colonial Secretariat acknowledging the petition of the 147 women in Sydney to be permitted to return to Hongkong. The petition was received by the "Hongkong Telegraph" and forwarded at the request of the petitioners to the Government.

Acknowledging receipt of the petition Mr. C. Bramall Burgess, on behalf of the Colony Secretary writes:

Sir.—With reference to your letter of the 2nd November with which you forwarded a petition from certain ladies who were evacuated from this Colony and are at present in Australia, I am directed by His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government to inform you that the matter dealt with in this petition are at present under consideration and that, while there is little likelihood of it being possible to allow the return of evacuees in the near future, a further reply will be sent as soon as possible after the matter has been fully examined.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
(signed) C. Bramall Burgess.
Estonia Evacues Here. One hundred and seventy-six British men, women and children, evacuees from Estonia, arrived in Hongkong to-day en route to Australia. They have been travelling since October 20, going overland via Siberia to Vladivostok where they were met by a Hongkong ship. Hongkong has been their first port of call since leaving Vladivostok and they are expected to continue their journey south to-day by the same ship.

Informed among the evacuees in Mrs. L. Russell-Green, for several years Estonia correspondent of the "Sunday Observer." With her is her young son.

The appeal broadcast on Sunday over ZBW for clothing and other wearing apparel for the Estonian refugees passing through the Colony to reports ready response, according to reports received from the collecting centres—St. John's and St. Andrew's Halls—yesterday. The clothing was given to the refugees before they left.

Messages received from the various centres were taken down in the telephone room on "air raid damage" forms and communicated to the reporting room, where the affected areas were traced and plotted by means of small flags on the district maps. Representative flags were used for types of bombs used, mains and cables damaged; roads blocked, buildings demolished and unexploded bombs, while other flags indicated the sort of assistance required from Police, decontamination, medical, road, water, gas, electrical sewer and telephone repairs, and rescue, demolition and burial parties.

Clothes Padres' Message To Coventry. It was revealed to-day that both Dean J. L. Wilson of St. John's Cathedral and the Rev. J. R. Higgins of St. Andrew's have close personal interests in Coventry, the lovely English midland city which was so ruthlessly bombed by the German Luftwaffe last week.

Both Dean Wilson and the Rev. Mr. Higgins were associated with the Coventry Cathedral for many years, while the Rev. H. B. Balnes, assistant chaplain at St. John's Cathedral for several years, became vicar of St. Nicholas, Radford in the city of Coventry, when he returned Home in 1938. Much concern is felt for his safety.

The following telegram, signed by the Dean and Mr. Higgins was sent to Mr. Balnes:

"Loving greetings. Please accept and assure Bishop, Provost and citizens Coventry great sympathy and fellowship in their suffering. Encouraged by their example we remember all with love and prayer. St. John's Fellowship Wilson Higgins."

Dean Wilson was ordained at Coventry Cathedral in 1924 and was attached to the Cathedral Staff as assistant curate and successor for three years from 1924 to 1927. Later he took charge of St. Ann's Church which was the daughter church of the Cathedral, and continued there until 1930 when he was succeeded by the Rev. J. R. Higgins. In the same year St. Ann's became a separate parish and Mr. Higgins was in charge until 1934.

Volunteers' Lawn Bowl. The 5th R.A. Battery (L/Bdr. W. Melrose, Gr. R. Mohn, Gr. R. M. Keown, Gr. V. C. Chalmers) beat the A.S.C. Company "A" (Cpl. P. Cullen, Sgt. W. G. Sart, Sgt. G. Miller, Pte. Korn) 16-15 in the final of the Volunteer bowls competition for the China Mall Challenge Cup at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club to-day.

The A.S.C. Company had a slight advantage after 11 heads when the score was 9-9. The first 10 heads were made to the score level and a five in the 10th head helped the Battery to lead 18-14 and finally win 19-15. The last head was played in darkness and the winners added a single to their tally. Capt. A. W. Brown, welcoming the Captain of the A.S.C. Company, said Sir Atholl MacGregor, said there were 162 players and 30 links in the competition and they were able to contribute $100 to the Bomber Fund and there was a sum of $31 still to be sent. Col. Rose presented the trophy to Gr. Cullen.

Kowloon Golf Club. The Kowloon Golf Club's 18-hole medal play championship held to-day resulted in a tie for first place between S. Tomlinson and R. K. Collings, both returning a score of 107. W. Kershaw was third with 102, followed by A. J. Dennis with 109 and E. C. Fletcher with 111.

Results of the first round of the Junior Championship were: G. H. Frost beat H. Sykes; W. C. Hung beat J. Cole; H. J. Gross beat J. H. Hunter; R. Miller beat S. J. Remedios; T. Henderson beat E. C. Fletcher; and A. G. Butterfield beat W. Groves.

Hongkong Ships Requisitioned. The requisition of all British shipping based on Hongkong and Singapore is to take place in the near future, in consequence of inquiries pursued locally on the instructions of the Home Government. It was learned to-day, Ocean-going ships belonging to the China Navigation Company and the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company, have been requisitioned by the Home Government since May 1 and two other vessels, one of Williamson and Co. and one of Moller and Co., have also been taken over, but the bulk of Far East British shipping has not yet been touched.

Good Trade Figures. According to an official report released for publication by the Superintendent of Imports and Exports Department, the combined values of the Colony's imports and exports of merchandise as declared during the month of October, 1940, totalled $102.9 millions (£6.4 millions) as compared with $90.8 millions (£5.6 millions) in October, 1939.

In terms of local currency the total visible trade of the Colony increased by 13.3 per cent. in October, 1940, as compared with October, 1939; and by 14.3 per cent. in terms of sterling.

Obituary. The death occurred at the Queen Mary Hospital this morning of Mr. Maximiliano Antonio Collaco, an elderly member of the Portuguese community who had retired from active life some years ago. He was 70 years old.

Burial took place at the Roman Catholic Cemetery, Happy Valley. In the afternoon, the Rev. Fr. G. M. Spano, O.S.A., Chief mourner, was the deceased's son, Mr. F. Collaco, four daughters, Mrs. C. Brown, Mrs. C. Mattox, Mrs. L. Brown and Miss Thora Collaco, Mr. H. Brown and Mr. A. Mattox.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hull, Mrs. W. E. Hollands, Mrs. de Schipper, Mrs. Bogas, Mrs. Hunter, Messrs. A. Osmund, A. C. Botelho, F. X. Soares, H. Figueiredo, P. Castillo, F. X. Pupils' Recital. An enjoyable piano-forte recital was given at St. John's Cathedral Hall to-day by Mr. Harry Orme students. The function was well attended by parents and friends of the performers.

The programme opened with a duet by Irene Lum, L.T.C.L. and Edmund Lum, who gave a brilliant rendition of the "ouverture of Thomas' Mignon."

Later in the evening Edmund Lum played "The Ballad of the Pied Piper of Hamelin" in a Flat and Beethoven's Scherzo in a Flat; Yu Shuk-siu, who offered Chopin's Nocturne No. 18, and Vale No. 7; Anny Mai, who played the "Fairy" and "Schindler's Angel," and Rachmaninoff's "Hymn."

Other pupils were Parki Chen, who played "Al Ben Aimé" by Schubert; Huang Lal-ying, who played Schubert's Improviso in a Flat and Beethoven's Scherzo in a Flat; Yu Shuk-siu, who offered Chopin's Nocturne No. 18, and Vale No. 7; Anny Mai, who played the "Fairy" and "Schindler's Angel," and Rachmaninoff's "Hymn."

Margot Renner, who played Paderewsky's Menuet; Jane Wong, who played "Boat Song" by Scherwanek, and "Love Thee" by Grieg; and David King, who played Rachmaninoff's Prelude, and Chopin's Vale No. 6.

It shall be a defence to a prosecution for a contravention of this regulation that the master or pilot took every reasonable precaution to prevent the disembarkation, but no defence to prove that he did not do anything to facilitate such disembarkation.

If any person disobeys in this Colony from a ship or aircraft in contravention of the above regulation, the master of the ship or the pilot of the aircraft shall be bound, upon the order of the competent authority, to re-embark such person in his ship or aircraft either forthwith or after such period of detention as aforementioned, or the owner, charterer, or agent of such ship or aircraft, and the master or pilot thereof, as the case may be, shall be jointly and severally liable to pay to the competent authority all costs and charges incurred in respect of the maintenance of such person and his dependents, if he is a national or his port of embarkation or his destination.

All such costs and charges shall be deemed to be a debt due to the Crown and may be recovered by the Treasurer in the same manner as Crown debts are recovered under the Crown Remedies Ordinance, 1876.

The provisions of the Defence Regulation, 1940, are not to be substituted for the time being in force to time in force relating to immigration; and

(b) "Passenger" includes any person in a ship or aircraft other than the master, pilot and crew thereof;

(c) "Ship" has the same meaning as in the Merchant Shipping Ordinance, 1939;

(d) "Travel document" means a document establishing the nationality and identity of a person and authorizing him to travel and/or enter the Colony, issued or endorsed in the case of a British subject or British protected person by a competent British official, and in other cases by an official having authority to issue or endorse such documents in respect of the person in question.

Any reference in these regulations to the master of a ship or the pilot of an aircraft shall be construed as including a reference to the person for the time being in charge of the ship or aircraft as the case may be except in relation to a ship a pilot licensed under the Pilots Ordinance, 1930.

Entry Restrictions.

No person, whether a British subject or not, coming as a passenger by sea or air from a place outside this Colony unless—

(a) He is in possession of a valid passport or travel document or certificate of travel issued or endorsed by a competent authority, permitting him to enter this Colony;

(b) He has obtained on such permit, travel document, certificate or substitution, for the same for the time being in force shall apply for the purpose of the enforcement of these regulations, and otherwise in respect of these conditions, either general or those regulations, individual or special, as he thinks fit to the grant, to the regulations.

Mr. Hynes was educated at Bedford School. He came East in 1907 as a junior assistant in the Bank of Bengal branch, then being transferred to Singapore and later to Bangkok. In 1904 Mr. Hynes came to the Hongkong office, remained here five years and was transferred to Amoy and then to Ipoh, returning to this Colony as Chief Accountant. He held this position in 1917. Mr. Hynes went to Shanghai as sub-manager and in 1922 was appointed Manager of the Singapore branch. His last post was the management of the Hongkong Bank in 1926 in succession to Mr. A. G. Barlowe. A member of the Executive Council, Mr. Hynes also served on the committees of the Chamber of Commerce, the China Association, Court of the Hongkong University, Matilda and Alice Memorial Hospital and Mission to Seamen. He was a steward of the Jockey Club and Vice-Commander-in-Chief of the Yacht Club.

Evacuation Cost. It has not yet been settled whether the Home Government or the Hongkong Government shall bear the cost of the evacuation, stated the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Mr. N. W. Delano. In the course of an interview he added that the matter was still under discussion.

He also stated that the petition of the husbands of women who have been evacuated, seeking permission for their return to the Colony, is being forwarded to the Secretary of State.

Former Resident Mrs. News has been recently the guest of Mrs. Edith Annie Hewitt, a former resident of the Colony, on September 23 at her home in Parkstone, near Bournemouth.

Mrs. Hewitt is well known here, having been a resident of Hongkong for a number of years, and had many friends here. Mr. A. G. Hewitt, F.R.I.A., a leading local architect, and after long residence in the Colony, retired about six years ago and returned to England with his wife, the couple making their home at Parkstone.

"Won't You Spare A Dime?"
From The "Bird's Eye View"

"Won't You Spare A Dime?"

Just the pint you needn't drink,

The extra far to help you think,

The odd half-hour in cabaret,

Or rickshaw, just little way,

That course you didn't want to eat,

A "swear-box," where the men all meet,

A few cents here, a dollar there,

The mite that you could easily spare,

Would very soon accumulate,

And stop the "Nazi Covenant."

For we, in safety living here,

With cheaper fare, and cheaper beer,

Must realise what living hell,

The folks at home all know so well.

Let them have a night of rest,

Stop this bitter Luftwaffe pest,

"Bomb the bomber," that's my pica:

So follows, if you'll pardon me,

I'll finish up my rhyme,

With — "Brother, won't you spare a dime?" — Cera.

Death of Mr. E. Lindsell. The Colonial Secretary to-day announced that Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, puisne judge of the Supreme Court of Hongkong, died in Durban on November 10. The announcement that it was known that Mr. Lindsell had been in bad health, was a shock to his many friends. Mr. Lindsell left the Colony for South Africa on leave on April 2 this year, accompanied by Mrs. Lindsell, and they were expected to return here some time next month.

Born on December 12, 1895, at Hitchin, Herts, England, the late Mr. Roger Edward Lindsell was educated at Upminster School and at Cambridge, where he took his M.A. degree in 1923. In October of the following year, he passed his examination for a Colonial cadetship, and was posted to Hongkong, arriving in the Colony on the last day of the year. He was married to Miss Elsa Brynghill, a widow, three sons and a daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. L. Silva, A. Pereira, C. G. Silva, A. Barros, and P. Remedios.

Mr. Lindsell's entire service had been spent in the Colony, passing his final examinations in Canton in November, 1911, his first appointment was that of Acting Assistant Registrar General. In January, 1913, he successfully passed his examinations in law.

From November, 1913, to January, 1914, he was attached to the Chinese Secretariat and for the next seven years served in various capacities in the Chinese Secretariat, as Acting Second Police Magistrate and Deputy Commissioner of Police.

Appointed Puisne Judge

On January 27, 1930, Mr. Lindsell was called to the Bar of the Colony, and about a year later, was appointed Acting Puisne Judge, and in the following year, Acting Assistant Registrar General. He was promoted to Puisne Judge in succession to Mr. J. R. Wood, in October, 1934, and sat for the first time in that capacity on December 14, when an address of welcome was made by the Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, Attorney General, on behalf of the legal profession.

Mr. Lindsell was acting Chief Justice of the B Division. It was decided that it be divided into two sections, the winners to meet in a final.

BESTIAL BRUTALITY

WAR fought under Queensbury rules is ghastly enough, but when it is governed by Totalitarian regulations as imposed by Hitler, Mussolini and their admirers, it becomes the last word in bestial brutality. Hitler, when he ordered through Goering, the machine-gunning of defenceless women and children, took away from his soldiers what little honour there was left to them. This murderous form of warfare started in France and Belgium and has been continued during air raids over England.

The world has been forced to accept air raids as a necessary feature of modern war; civilians now recognise that they have about the same sporting chance of surviving as did the men in the last war who "went over the top"; at least they have from bombs. But Hitler doesn't believe in sporting chances, and he orders his aerial assassins to dive down on peaceful, inoffensive country towns and villages to machine-gun the unsuspecting inhabitants; Bruno Mussolini and his gangsters did the same thing to the fleeing, defenceless Abyssinians and described it as "great sport". This last week a Hongkong resident learnt that his mother, sister and two-year-old niece were machine-gunned by one of Hitler's air murderers while they were out walking; a nearby railway arch saved them. The same inhuman action is being performed daily over England.

This then is what Britain and the whole Empire has to fight; men whose hands are so stained with the blood of innocents that civilisation will for ever shudder at the recollection. Knowledge of these Hun tactics cannot but brutalise our own fighters, but, thank God, they are incapable of such unspeakable actions. Britons will take vengeance for these Nazi crimes, but not by stooping to the lowest form of warfare that the wit of man has ever devised; we will destroy

W. N. EWER explains why...

Hitler can't find his little Fuehrers

"THE Government-General of Poland is incorporated in the German Reich."

That item of news records a defeat and a rebuff for Hitler. It means that his plan of setting up a "Quisling" Government in Central Poland has failed.

No Pole of any importance will co-operate with the Germans. The whole people is in sullen revolt against its conquerors. And this is true not only of Poland.

Hitler's whole plan for the "reorganisation" of Europe has been based on the "Quisling" idea.

In each conquered or intimidated country a native Government would be set up.

It would be chosen by the Fuehrer.

It would rule by Nazi methods and in accordance with Nazi principles.

It would in all its policy consider the needs of the Reich before those of its own people.

But still it would be a bullies and as plunderers. They or Czech or Norwegian or what. And that might gradually reconcile the people to it.

It might settle down.

Such Quisling Governments would spare Germany the bother and the odium of ruling the conquered countries directly.

Plan Fails

They would prepare the way for a Europe of satellite States grouped around the great central power of the Reich.

In military matters, in all relations with the outer world, in ed the Quisling plan.

In a speech delivered by the German Minister of Propaganda, Dr. Goebbels, on the occasion of the anniversary of the war, he devoted particular attention to the Nazi "achievements" in solving the Jewish problem in Germany. Unable to announce the fall of Austria capital by scoring an easy victory against the Jews. One of the first orders issued by him forbids all Jews to appear in the streets of Vienna from 2 to 4 p.m., from 5 to 7 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m.

The municipalities of hundreds of towns in Germany, he declared with pride, are now displaying a white flag signifying that those towns are "Judenfrei" (Jewless).

He also dwelt on the Nazi success in destroying Jewish life in the invaded countries, and on the intentions of the "Fuehrer", whom he styled the "genius of Germany", to eradicate the Jews in all countries after his "victorious" conclusion of the war.

In the same speech, however, Dr. Goebbels betrayed the fact that he was not so sure of the might of Germany as he pretended to be. When he dealt with the "evil deeds" of the Jews, whom he accused of sharing with Britain the responsibility for the rejection of Hitler's peace offer, he complained bitterly about the danger of starvation that threatened the countries occupied by the Nazis and he had no explanation to offer to the people on the inability of the "mighty" Nazi forces to frustrate the British blockade.

The new Governor of Vienna, Baldur von Schirach, has also the murderers and their evil leaders. It may take time, but it will be done; and when it has been accomplished we must see to it that never again shall such barbarity be possible.

economic questions affecting the whole continent, these satellite States would accept the will of instance, growing sabotage.

Hitler must hold every one of these conquered countries by guidance, to rule themselves—a continuous effort and a con-

Fuehrers.

All the news that filters for a new Europe. But it is a tell the same story. Resistance force is breaking down, be increasing, terrorism is inlar have taken fresh heart from the news of the air fighting.

And the Germans are quite incapable of carrying out any legend and an inspiration. Despite all Nazi efforts the true stories get round—and become even exaggerated as they go.

Lost Chance

If in each country they invaded they had gone all out immediately the fighting was over to conciliate the people; if they had behaved as if they really were visible facts.

had come, as they professed, to Poland, into Bohemia and Moravia to protect them against British via there have come many thousands of Germans, sent away against British greed (or, in the much-bombed Ruhr and Rhineland, Czechs and Russian greed), then they might Poles know what that means, and take now courage.

But they have behaved as if they were arrogant and overbearing.

They have pillaged industry and agriculture and brought thriving people near to starvation.

But there is, quite certainly, growing resistance, growing sabotage, more and more trouble to toil as serfs in the Reich. for the German authorities.

They themselves claim to have nearly two million workers from the conquered countries labouring in Germany.

The holding of the conquests is costing Germany a big effort as the goes on.

You cannot do that and then hope for co-operation. German brutality, German ruthlessness

Government-General of Poland is quite significant and decidedly cheering.

And that bit of news about the Government should exercise its censorship fairly and efficiently, and it is surprising that the Chinese newspapers in Hongkong have not seriously pressed the matter.

On the other hand, the Government permits the publication of a weekly newspaper in English, by nationals of a country which has practically allied itself with Britain's enemies in the present war, and which has disseminated news and propaganda that is to say the least, neither flattering to Britain nor helpful to her cause.

The long-awaited Charlie Chaplin satire on Hitler and Mussolini, "The Great Dictator," has been completed, and Hongkong is looking forward eagerly to its showing here. The inimitable Charlie appears as Hinkler, complete with the emblem of the "Double Cross," the ludicrous salute and all the other trappings of a Nazi dictator.

Jack Oakie takes the part of Benito Napolini, being a take-off of the megalomaniac of Rome.

Letters from friends abroad tell me that "The Great Dictator" is the best long film that Chaplin has done.

Perhaps no news about Chaplin pleases more than that he is going to make several short comedies. In spite of many bright moments, the full-length Charlie Chaplin pictures possessed bald, weary patches. And short films mean that there is a chance of seeing him more often on the screen—a tonic in these days.

No doubt in a city as large as Hongkong, ways of making a living must be many and varied. Only the other night I discovered people engaged on a rather curious job—or so it appeared to me. Whilst taking a late night stroll through the city, I saw two groups of men working along the length of the tram lines removing rubbish and other accumulations from the rails. It had never dawned on me until that time that the rubbish must be removed somehow, and, of course, it is reasonable to have people doing such work. Yet to me it was a curious and interesting discovery.

Engaging the men in conversation, I found that the two groups work as soon as the last tram has "gone to bed." One group begins from the Shaukiwan terminus and another from Kennedy Town, each concentrating on the left-hand pair of lines.

The two groups encounter each other nightly somewhere near Garden Road. One group will work tonight from east to west, and make the return journey the next night. Thus they go alternately.

Speaking of queer occupations, I am told that a wealthy Hongkong resident who suffers from a digestive ailment employs a man to count the number of times he chews each mouthful of food. It is said that his doctor advises him to masturbate properly, even the milk he drinks. A mouthful of milk is well-masticated understand, in 15 chews.

The Mere Man

Chinese
Press
Censorship

The inconsistencies of the official censorship over Chinese newspapers and periodicals in Hongkong have been pointed out time and again in the Colony's English press, and the necessity for a thorough review has, I believe, been urged on many occasions in the Legislative Council. The position, however, remains unchanged. There seems to be little excuse why our rulers cannot spare some energy to remove the anomalies that exist.

To an ordinary man, the objects of censorship would appear to be met if treasonable or grossly calumnious articles and information prejudicial to defence is excluded. The British press throughout the world has a censorship of its own in such matters, and it seems that the Government fails to appreciate that Chinese newspapers in the Colony are also keen to uphold the best traditions of their profession. The Chinese press as a whole should not be penalised for the crimes of a few isolated offenders. It is not disputed that there are newspapers here, as anywhere in the world, which would, if allowed, publish anything and everything. These are the papers to keep a vigilant watch over, but the others, who carry on their work honourably, do not deserve to be subjected to the same treatment.

The latest instance to have come to my attention of the incongruity of the local censorship was a ban on the publication of the news of the appointment of Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham to direct a unified Far Eastern Command. The news, cabled from London, appeared in the English afternoon newspapers on the same day, November 14. Yet not a word was allowed to be published in the Chinese papers that day. Can this news be classed as treasonable or prejudicial to defence?

Several months ago, when Japanese bombs landed in the New Territories, the Chinese newspapers were similarly barred from mentioning the fact, while their English contemporaries carried full reports.

The Government should exercise its censorship fairly and efficiently, and it is surprising that the Chinese newspapers in Hongkong have not seriously pressed the matter.

NAZIS AND THE JEWS

parades held in Warsaw, Cracow and other Polish towns. Instead of joining the Germans in Poland in witnessing the parades and cheering the troops, complained the Nazi organs, the Jews and the Polish pro-Jews completely boycotted them.

The only explanation the Nazis could offer for such Jewish "impudence" was the secret hope cherished by the Jews that Britain and General Sikorski would ultimately free them from German rule.

This time, it must be stated, great dissatisfaction concerning the Nazis were completely right the attitude of the Jews in Poland in summing up the feelings of land towards Nazi military the Jews in Poland.

YUNNAN GOVERNOR FEARS JAPANESE DRIVE SOUTH WHILE STALLING U.S.

CHURCHES AND SHOPS HIT

Heavy Raid On Coast Town

FROM A SOUTH COAST TOWN, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—Waves of German bombers swooping in from the sea and dropping fire-bombs, subjected this town to its heaviest attack of the war last night.

As they wheeled back for their bases, high explosive bombs crashed down and churches, cinemas, clinics, banks, public buildings, hotels and shops were damaged.

Several fires were caused and the planes tried to concentrate on these, but accurate anti-aircraft fire drove many back.

Southampton Target

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—The German radio claimed that 250 planes heavily attacked the harbour, docks and warehouses in Southampton with high explosive bombs and thousands of incendiaries.

Downed Over Channel

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—An enemy bomber was shot down over the Channel to-day.

It was one of several formations which tried to reach London but were dispersed by defending fighters.

The Air Ministry states that a few bombs were dropped in several points in Kent but casualties and damage were small.

North Sea Chase

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—On the way to Germany, an R.A.F. bomber was attacked over the North Sea by three Junkers, but it kept up a running fight for 20 minutes by which time the bomber had been forced down from 7,000 to 2,000 feet. "Just when things were looking bad," said the pilot, "we saw one enemy plane falling in a headlong dive towards the sea with its cockpit ablaze. This was enough for the other two who sheered off."

German fighters were also active during the raid on Berlin when two Messerschmitts attacked an R.A.F. bomber but they broke off the fight after a brief encounter.

Service On Sunday

LONDON, Nov. 24 (British Wireless).—A congregation of 40 attended morning service as usual to-day in a partly-wrecked church in a south coast town. The north wall of the church had been demolished by an enemy air raid last night.

The pews were still covered with debris but the service was carried through, a surprised choir leading the singing.

HAWKER WHO OFFERED BRIBE

"Hawking itself is not a serious offence, but offering money to a Police officer is a very serious offence," said Mr. E. Hinesworth at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, when Wong Cheung, 33, unemployed, was charged with hawking without a licence in Mongkok Road and offering a bribe of 60 cents to Supt. Cameron.

Wong pleaded guilty to the charges, and was fined a dollar or seven days on the first count, and $100 or in default, two months' hard labour on the second. The sentences are to be consecutive.

Sgt. Cameron said he arrested Wong on Saturday, and on the way to the station, Wong put 60 cents in his hand, and said "Yum char. Pek yun ching" (Drink tea. Give me a chance). There was 20 cents in Wong's possession when searched at the station.

"Perfect Spiritual Unity"—Nazi Hope

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—The Nazi governor of Holland, Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, has delivered a speech in which he said, according to the Italian news agency, that "Germans and Dutchmen understand each other perfectly since they know that they will end by uniting completely."

Dr. Seyss-Inquart said that he wished to see a "perfect spiritual unity between Holland and Germany."

British Troops In Greece

First Contingent

(From "REUTER'S")
CORRESPONDENT IN GREECE

ATHENS, Nov. 24.—A number of famous British warships in brilliant sunshine slipped quietly into a Greek harbour a few days ago, their decks packed with British and New Zealand troops and airmen waving back to the frenzied thousands of Greeks whose clapping and cheering echoed from hill to hill.

The first warship to berth showed signs of a famous engagement. Within two minutes of the hawsers being flung to the dockside the first British army lorry was landed gracefully from this warship.

Meanwhile British and New Zealand troops competed to be the first to set foot on Greek soil. A typical Cockney won the contest by a narrow margin.

A.A. Gun Ready.

While anti-aircraft crews in all ships stood ready to repel any Italian gate-crashers at this party, disembarkation went through with astonishing rapidity and smoothness.

Within five minutes the first lorries were already on their way through the cheering crowds to the town.

All Greeks were anxious to know how Greece was faring and were full of admiration for the Greek troops on all fronts.

Men and material were poured in a continuous stream from the warships with a minimum of fuss. Troops represented the full complement necessary for defence and maintenance of British air bases—men of the Royal Army Service Corps mingled with engineers and mechanics, hundreds of the Air Force ground staff and New Zealand supplies.

In Good Heart

The men were in high settle after their trip. During the whole voyage they never saw a single hostile plane or vessel.

A great crowd assembled in the harbour and threw their hats into the air as lorry after lorry raced through the town and a similar welcome was given the troops all along the route.

The sight of British khaki had been eagerly awaited in Greece and the arrival of the troops is bound to have a great effect on Greek morale.

Another Japanese Transport Lost

CHUNGKING, Nov. 24 (Central News).—A Japanese transport with a cargo of peanuts and beans steaming eastward from Ichang on the Yangtze River in Kiangsu was stranded at Shiheryu on the night of November 21.

Chinese sent boatloads of troops to attack it and the transport was set on fire and foundered.

Admiral Forbes

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuters).—Admiral of the Fleet Sir Charles Forbes, formerly Commander-in-Chief of the Home Fleet, has been appointed Commander-in-Chief, Plymouth, in succession to Admiral Sir Martin Dunbar-Nasmith as from May 1 next.

"Japan at the present moment is concentrating her efforts to swallow up the rich but inadequately defended countries of Indo-China, Thailand, and Burma, and is doing her utmost to foment armed conflict between Indo-China and Thailand first, in order to get the opportunity to gain 'fisherman's profit,' is the opinion of General Lun Yun, for the past twelve years Governor of Yunnan.

The General gave an exclusive interview to this Correspondent in his headquarters, a Ming Dynasty Imperial Palace of the 17th century.

By G. K. T. WANG

"United Press" Correspondent

The Governor, who received me in his private reception room, surprised me by his simple native gown, his modest manners, his general appearance which was typical of a scholar. Mild as an artist, accurate as a scientist, alert as a strategist and as intelligent as a philosopher, the Governor enjoys perfect health and looks to be in late thirties, though he is well over that.

Discussing the international situation the Governor said: "After three years of warfare with China, Japan has realized the obvious fact that to conquer China through military methods is an impossibility. The Japanese are regretting the long, unprofitable China campaign. They are trying to launch a southern expansion on diplomatic tricks and strategic manœuvres so as to save men and money. To get Indo-China and Thailand into an inextricable war, of which she can take advantage, is Tokyo's present intrigue in the confusion of this south-eastern corner of Asia."

Hanging in the middle of the Governor's reception room is a huge picture of himself and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek taken in 1934 when the Generalissimo first came to Yunnan in pursuit of Communists from Kiangsi.

Worried About Burma

The Governor is a light cigar smoker. After lighting his cigar for a second time, he continued:

"The first thing which worries us to-day is a Japanese military move towards Burma where they can kill two birds with one stone by occupying the rich oil and rice fields in Burma and at the same time cutting our transportation line. As to the Japanese threat to cut the highway by bombing bridges, what actually happened in the past month proved that this is impossible. We Chinese have inherited from our wise ancestors numerous other ways to move things across a river than by a suspension bridge. Even with single rope put across the torrent we can alight things back and forth. Transportation would not be halted by bombing bridges."

"The Japanese may even be planning to over-run Thailand under the pretext of 'borrowing a passage.' Anyhow I believe that the Japanese will not attack the Dutch East Indies or Singapore, before they have obtained Indo-China, Thailand, and Burma."

Questioned about reported Japanese designs in the Saigon area, the Governor said that the Japanese had concentrated troops in Annam Island, and may effect a landing near Saigon at any time. He predicted that the French in Indo-China would not resist even if the Japanese land troops at Saigon.

America and Japan

Turning to Japanese-American relations, the Governor said that all steps taken by the American Government in recent years were admirable.

"However, I don't think a Japanese-American war will come in the near future. Japan is careful not to enter into actual fighting with Americans, while at the same time America is unwilling to start military action without serious consideration. American economic measures towards Japan would be fatal enough to the Japanese. But thus far Washington has not carried out fully what the United States should do in the field of economic sanctions."

Yunnan Matters

The Governor told this interviewer that Yunnan has a new bountiful harvest this year, assuring the sufficiency of foodstuffs.

The Governor has kept the province in perfect order during the past 12 years. He used to inspect every bombed section after each Japanese air raid, and he has just completed preparations to fight fire in case of incendiary bombing, pushing and supervising the preparations in person.

The Governor predicted that while the Chinese people are united as one man to prolong the present resistance, the war between China and Japan will finish when Japan realises the sheer futility of further trying to conquer via military means, and withdraws her army. "I believe," he concluded, "the war will be concluded not through military methods, but diplomatically and economically."

MONDAY MORNING COMMENTARY

Chinese Federation Win First Governor's Cup Match

Association Forwards Fail To Accept Opportunities Offered

(By "Scrambler")

THOUGH BEATEN by the only goal scored by Hau Ching-tau for the Chinese Federation in the second half in the Governor's Cup match yesterday at Caroline Hill, the Association's XI were in no way disgraced, for had their forwards accepted the chances that were presented during the earlier phases of the game, the result would have been different.

COMBINATION CARRIES THE DAY

The brand of football served up was very entertaining, and had its share of exciting and anxious moments for both teams. It was very evenly contested, and the difference was only to be found in the forward line, where the Chinese went about their work methodically and with a purpose contrasting with the Association's forwards, where, although every man worked hard, they went about their work disjointedly.

Both defences were put through a gruelling test and came off with flying colours. That no goals were scored during the first forty-five minutes of the game speaks for itself. The Chinese from the start had very good combination in defence, and although the Association's took a little time in settling down, they had the measure of their opponents, and put up as good an exhibition, if not better, than their opponents in the first half.

Both keepers had very little to do in the first half, for play was chiefly confined to midfield. However, Robinson had more to do later in the game, for after scoring that solitary goal, the Chinese played inspired football, and kept attacking for sometime, and it was during this period that the resourcefulness of Robinson was seen at its best. He waved point blank shots from both Chan Tak-fai and Hau Ching-tau, which looked certain goals, and on the whole he had more to do than Cheung Weng-chol and gave a very creditable display.

HARD TACKLING HALVES

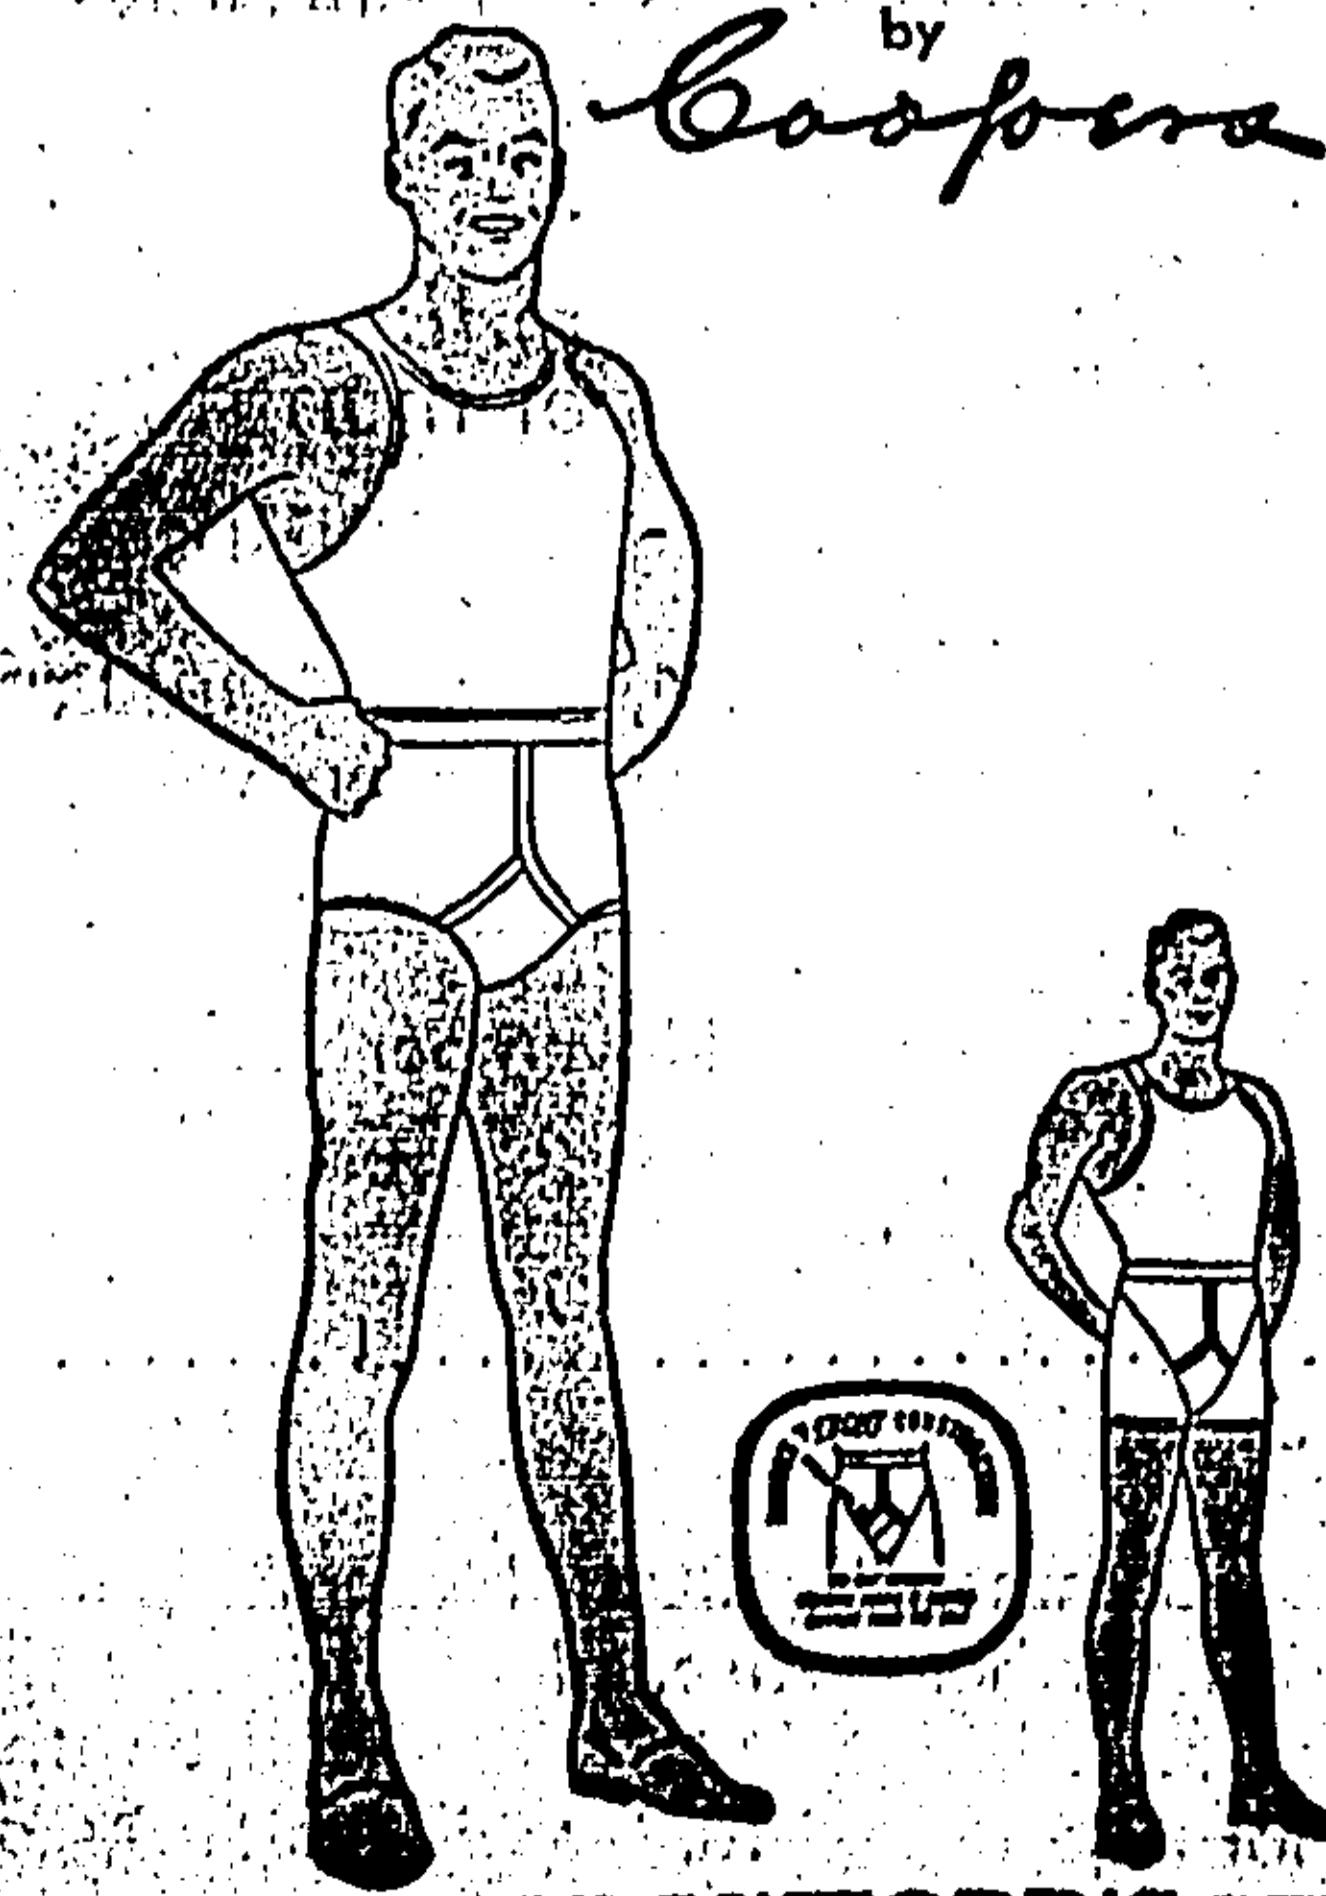

The Association's defence could not have given a better display. Every man played to a standstill. The early understanding between Roughley and Leonard was responsible for their breaking up of many a threatening movement, and their

Jardines Defeat
The Bank In
Inter-Hong Match

DESPITE 6 for 56 by J. L. A. Fielden and then 48 runs from C. D. N. Walker, the Hongkong Bank were beaten by 37 runs by Jardines when these two firms met in an Inter-Hong Cricket match at the Kowloon Cricket Club yesterday.

Steady contributions from Jardines' men, top scorer among whom was N. J. Bookler (35), enabled them to total 149. G. P. Charlton (4 for 31) and K. M. Baxter (4 for 27), however, made that a winning score for the Bankmen who were all out for 112.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

What are pimples? They are a prevalent type of acne starts with the clogging of the oil glands of the skin, especially about the face; then these paste-like plugs become infected by germs present on the skin and a series of pustules is the result. For a quick relief of pimples, use:

STILLMAN'S PIMPLE REMOVER

Just apply a very small portion of the cream when retiring at night. Do not rub in, but apply lightly; wash off in the morning with a good soap. Within a few days you will see for yourself its wonderful results.

STILLMAN'S ACTONE (Liquid)

Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries quickly—is invisible. May be applied at home, at the office—wherever you have a few seconds to remove the cap, the chaser and moisten the affected area with the liquid. Wonderful results can be expected after a few days' application. For economy and convenience, use the "Chaser". It keeps right after the pimple.

BRITAIN'S WEEK-END OF AERIAL CONFLICT:

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE
UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT

LONDON, NOV. 24 (UP).—AXIS RAIDERS ROARED OVER THE SOUTH OF ENGLAND TO-DAY WHERE THE PREVIOUS NIGHT'S ASSAULTS WERE CONCENTRATED ON A COASTAL TOWN. EXTENSIVE DAMAGE WAS INFILCTED AND IT IS FEARED THE CASUALTIES ARE HEAVY (BERLIN REPORTS STATE THAT SOUTHAMPTON WAS SUBJECT-ED TO VERY HEAVY BOMBING RAIDS ON SATURDAY NIGHT).

In frequent bursts of anti-aircraft fire punctuated two early evening raids over the London area. The lightness of activity in the metropolitan zone indicated that most of the raiders were again trying to focus picked objectives elsewhere.

A bomb fell in the Home Counties near London, damaging a police station and a club, and causing some injuries.

The first brief alarm in London was without incident, and the second came just after the all clear for the first. Two enemy bombers are reported to have been destroyed by fighting planes over the Channel and near Cheltenham respectively.

Several formations of fighters and fighter bombers crossed the southeast coast during the day en route to London. Official reports say they were all dispersed by fighting planes. A few bombs fell in Kent, but the authorities have reported few casualties.

Dover Shelled

German Big Berthas on French coast shelled "Hell's Corner" around Dover for more than an hour this afternoon. No damage or casualties have been reported.

In the course of the bombardment a British Spitfire streaked across the Channel, circled the German guns at Cap Gris Nez, and on her way home, met four German Messerschmidts, one of which she brought down, while the other three scattered.

Following their policy of concentrating on one district, the German raiders Saturday night pounded the south coast with incendiary and high explosive bombs, causing extensive damage.

Southampton Pounded, Says Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 24. (UP).—Autho-ritative circles stated the Luftwaffe pounded Southampton with 340 tons of explosives and thousands of incendiary bombs all night on Saturday.

The official news agency stated that Southampton was singled out for a "main attack" at night and that 250 bombers were concentrated on the job. It said that bombs were showered on docks, harbour works and warehouses, and that many fires were started in addition to heavy explosions.

It was claimed that "other heavy bomber formations" attacked London, Liverpool, Birkenhead and Bristol and that fires were seen in many areas. The raid on London centred on the Government districts and the coast end.

Claire Cruisers Sunk

The German High Command reported that a U-boat sank six armed enemy merchantmen aggregating 20,100 tons, but details are not yet available.

They said that most of the R.A.F. planes which were trying to invade Germany Saturday night were driven back by heavy anti-air gun fire and were unable to reach their targets. They admitted that some bombs fell on one small town and in open country.

During the early hours of Saturday the German air attacks was directed against Portsmouth and Southampton and the other attacks were against Birmingham. They said that "several hundred" German planes participated and dropped more than 600,000 pounds of bombs. Fires and explosions on important military objectives were observed.

Spasmodic Raids

LONDON, Nov. 25 (UP).—Londoners appeared spasmodically over London and the provinces last night and dropped a few bombs on three districts, causing some damage and a few casualties.

There are no other reports of air activity from the whole of Britain.

Watchers on the Isle of Wight report seeing a night raider in port seeing a night raider in flames at sea.

Several houses were damaged when bombs fell in one London area in the second night raid, but most of the occupants were in a shelter in a nearby laundry, and were unscathed.

West Town Strafed

LONDON, Nov. 25 (UP).—German raiders flew over a town in the west of England in almost unbroken waves last night and early this morning when they dropped flares, incendiary and high explosive bombs over a wide area. A church and a hospital were among the buildings damaged.

Related reports also reveal that shortly before London's first alarm remained unbroken.

Nazi Girls Plumb New Depths Of Blasphemy

LONDON, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—"Hitler is no accident. He is a natural continuous product of a breed, which from the dawn of history, has been predatory and bellicose."

So declared Sir Robert Vansittart, Chief Diplomatic Adviser to the Government, broadcasting to-day.

He continued: "We must drop the habit of making allowances for the Germans. It is not fair to ourselves."

Sir Robert likened Germany to a butcher bird, "which looks harmless enough but springs on neighbours when they least expect it."

"It is a hallucination to believe that there is in Germany an effective element of kindly learned old gentlemen and sweet pig-tailed maidens."

You will find in the Polish "Black Book" German girls gloating over the sufferings of their victims. That is less surprising when one remembers that in early times German women were famed for inciting their men to ferocity.

Official League Song

"Nazis girls have gone further. They have become rancorous and blasphemous. To-day the Official League of German Maidens is singing:

"We've given up the Christian line. For Christ was just a Jewish swine."

As for His mother—what a shame.

Cohen was the lady's real name.

"If Germany, after her long unbroken career of evil-doing, is to cease being a curse to herself and everyone else, she will have to undergo a thorough spiritual cure."

Sir Robert concluded.

Italian Raiders Dispersed

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 24 (Reuter).—Low-flying Italian bombers raided Alexandria in the early hours to-day and were dispersed by a withering anti-aircraft fire.

Damage was done to house property and there were several casualties.

Four Killed

CAIRO, Nov. 25 (Reuter).—Four were killed and 28 were injured in the Italian raid on Alexandria.

Striking Tributes To Memory Of Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell

Tributes to the memory of the late Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell, Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court in Hongkong, who died at Durban, South Africa, on November 18, were paid by the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster and Mr. Eldon Potter, K.C., at the Supreme Court this morning.

There were present a large gathering of both branches of the legal profession, senior Police officers and friends of Mr. Lindsell.

Chief Justice's Tribute

The Chief Justice, who sat with Mr. Justice E. H. Williams, Acting Puisne Judge, said:

Mr. Attorney: Last Friday we received the tragically sad news of the death of Durban a week ago of Roger Lindsell, Puisne Judge of this court.

Lindsell first arrived in the Colony as a cadet in October 1909, and has done all his public service in Hongkong. For some time now he has been the senior of the cadet officers in length of service. He was called to the Bar in 1930, and in August, 1934, on the retirement of Mr. J. R. Wood, he was appointed Puisne Judge.

For the last six years he has been my colleague; I have had the advantage of his valuable advice and ever ready assistance, and I have had his friendship abundantly. Lindsell was a man who did everything hard, he worked hard and he played hard. He had hosts of friends and by the public he was liked and respected. He had a passion for justice, and many times here all of us heard the corridors of this building ring as he rebuked the shifty or prevaricating witness or dealt faithfully with the proved liar. To both branches of the profession, to the officers of the court, and to the public he was courteous and long suffering and in the best sense of the term he was a good judge.

Will Be Sorely Missed

In other spheres of life too he will be sorely missed. He had always been a keen sportsman playing cricket, tennis, golf and badminton. In more recent years his active participation in games became naturally less, but his experience, his shrewd and levelheaded commonsense and his love of the game for the game's sake were freely at the disposal of those who charged themselves with the task of promoting and controlling clean sport.

For many years until quite recently he was President of the Hongkong Lawn Tennis Association, and at the time of his death he was still President of the Kowloon Cricket Club and Vice-President of the Hongkong Badminton Association. In acting too he took delight and interest. He took part in several of the Amateur Dramatic Club's productions and for some years was their president. He had also been Chairman of the Hongkong Club.

As a bridge player he was famous and he recently took to lawn bowls with the same keenness and thoroughness that he gave to everything he undertook.

He died in harness a month short of his 55th birthday and there is no one here but feels that we have lost in him a good public servant and a good friend.

On behalf of my brother—Williams the Registrar, officers and staff of the Supreme Court and of myself, I would offer to Mrs. Lindsell and to their three sons and daughter, our most profound and sincere condolences, and with that expression of sympathy I know the law officers and both branches of the profession will wish to be associated.

The Attorney-General

The Hon. Mr. Alabaster said: On behalf of both branches of the legal profession, I desire to be so associated with your Lordship's remarks and join in the tribute to the memory of the late Mr. Justice Lindsell and in the expression of grief to Mrs. Lindsell and her family.

It had been my privilege to know Roger Lindsell ever since he arrived here, before his marriage and in every office he has held since then, both legal and social. He has brought to all these a magnetic personality which attracted people to such an extent that I believe he was better known to the public generally by name than by his service.

It was a privilege he shared with his wife, who possessed the same gift and charm.

I again desire to express our sympathy towards Mrs. Lindsell and her family in their loss.

Mr. Eldon Potter

Mr. Eldon Potter said: It came as a shock to all members of the legal profession to hear of the death of Mr. Justice Lindsell. None of us had expected such a sudden passing.

I would like to be associated with all that has been said by your Lordship and by the Hon. Attorney-General. I feel it is right that the Bar should pay tribute to the memory of one who was not only a judge but a friend.

I venture to say that the legal career of Mr. Justice Lindsell was a remarkable one. Although as Chief Magistrate of this Colony he figured with conspicuous success and acquired much legal experience in these years, it was only under ten years ago that he was called to the Bar.

His appointment as Puisne Judge received the full support and approval of every member of the profession. We all knew his ability as a lawyer and felt he would do well in his capacity of Judge.

In his private life he had a multitude of interests and was possessed of a strength of character and full of the joys of life.

I desire to convey to Mrs. Lindsell her daughter and sons our deepest sympathy in their loss.

Jury's Verdict Saves Pirate From Hanging

Scene of Killing Disputed

A finding that they were not satisfied that the spot at which the murder took place was in fact in British waters, was returned by the Jury at the Criminal Sessions this morning, when before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, the trial of Ho Lung-chai, alias Ho Kam-chuen, for the murder of Chan Chuen, was continued.

In view of this finding, his Lordship made the following order: "The Court having no jurisdiction, the accused is released in custody of the Police and is again at their disposal. I cannot acquit nor discharge. The only order I can make, the Court having no jurisdiction, is that accused be released and delivered to the Police."

He is alleged to have shot Chan on February 24 when he and several others pirated Junk No. T2476H about five miles east of the Nine Pins, at a spot which the Crown alleged was within four miles of the western extremity of the Colony's waters. He was a member of the crew of the junk, which was chartered by Chan from Ho Shing for a trip to San Chuen and Chan Chuen was a passenger.

Crew Betrayed

The Crown's case was that when the junk was near the Nine Pins, Ho Shing and his crew of four, including the accused, held up the remaining ten persons on board, after Chan Chuen had allegedly been shot by the accused, and put them ashore at Tam Kon Shan, after which they sailed away with the cargo consisting of kerosene, rice and other goods.

Mr. J. P. Murphy, Assistant Crown Solicitor, assisted by Sergeant A. F. Estall, prosecuted, and Ho was defended by Mr. H. Somersel Flitzroy, instructed by Mr. J. M. d'Almeida Remedios.

The Jury comprised Messrs. R. W. Owens (foreman), G. M. Ozorio, Lee Kwayn-yen, Wong Ho-lun, Wong Kie-kwong, Loo San-cheng and Wong Kam-yng.

His Lordship thanked the Jury for their service, and discharged the members after granting them exemption from Jury service until the next Jury year.

FUNERAL OF MRS. T. PIERSDORF

The funeral took place at the Protestant Cemetery this morning of Mrs. Therese Piersdorff, an old resident of the Colony, who passed away at the Matilda Hospital yesterday after a long illness.

The Rev. J. R. Higgs conducted the service and the chief mourners were Miss G. MacNider (niece) and Mr. E. MacNider (nephew). Others present included Miss J. Howell, Mrs. Allison, Mrs. W. E. Peers, Mrs. H. H. Rose, Mrs. E. Histed, Miss B. Beltrao, Mr. J. R. A. Pearcey, Mr. J. H. Lawrence, Mr. V. Kolthoff, Mr. W. Maher and Mr. S. C. Markin.

A wreath from the niece and nephews was buried with the casket, and amongst the floral tributes sent were those from Stan and Fay, Gladys, Eric, Pepin and Patsy Howell, and Betty Beltrao, R. L. Barkus, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence and family, Mr. and Mrs. Allison, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Peers, Mrs. Russell and Mr. Clarke, W. Greenhalgh, Ah Bo, Ah Mai, Ah Sam and Ah Chuen, and the women typists of Kowloon Docks.

and Italy and would technically avoid any charges of discrimination.

Roosevelt Approves

The idea is said to have the approval of President Roosevelt and is made at a time when speculation is rife about a possible relaxation of the Johnson Act; however, even if the Act is repealed, the "Cash and Carry" provisions of the Neutrality Act bars credits to the belligerents.

The Chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee, Mr. Sol Bloom said: "It should be emphasized that Britain does not need money, but merely credit for her purchases here. We should be given a specific list of British needs for which we can extend suitable credits. If they need a billion dollars worth of planes, they should have them on credit and not as a loan of actual money."

In Mr. Bloom's opinion, specific requests for credits might be filed without altering the Johnson Act.

CHARGE OF MURDER

Charged with murder, Wu Leung, an unemployed man, was remanded for a day by Mr. K. M. A. Barnett at Central Magistracy, to-day. Wu was alleged to have murdered a 20-year-old woman, Lo Kiu, at 8, Sheung Fong Lane, West Point.

Inspector F. D. B. Tuckett asked for the remand for inquiries to be completed.
